

Claims 'Purge' Is Intended to Turn Attention From Failures

G. O. P. Head Attacks
New Deal at 'Cornfield Conference'

HITS AT ROOSEVELT
Terms Republican Campaign Start of 'Fight
To Save U. S.'

Washington, Ind.—(P)—John D. M. Hamilton, Republican national chairman, said today President Roosevelt adopted "the Russian technique of the purge to divert our attention from the failures of the New Deal."

Hamilton spoke at the midwestern Republican "cornfield" conference near here.

He said the president's effort to defeat congressmen he considered unsympathetic to his program was patterned after the "purge" originated by Russia's Dictator Joseph Stalin and used later by Germany's fuhrer Adolf Hitler to turn attention from their failures.

"But the American people are not being misled by the theatricals of the New Deal purge," Hamilton said. "They want the real issues of this campaign discussed in the open and they want Mr. Roosevelt to justify, if he can, the plight in which this country finds itself after more than five years of his rule."

13 Million Unemployed
He said almost 13 million were unemployed in the United States though more than $21,000,000,000 had been spent on relief and public works; farm income was $1,100,000,000 under last year and farm prices back to 1933 levels, business failures were increasing and industrial production was less than 80 percent of the 1929-32 average.

"Let Mr. Roosevelt tell us how," he challenged, "in view of the conditions which I have just recited, the standard of living in this country can be raised, how the man who toils in factory and the farmer in his field, can enjoy a more abundant life when the strangling hand of the federal government is choking off the production essential to sustain for them a more abundant life."

"The Republican campaign is the beginning of a mighty fight to save the United States as we have known it for 150 years. One battle of that fight is being fought this year."

"Return To Sanity"

"This country," he concluded, "wants and needs a return to sanity and statesmanship."

Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, congressional campaign committee chairman, said the 1938 campaign was a "crossroads in our national life." He urged election of 70 more Republicans to congress.

"What we do this year," he said, "will in a great measure determine what is to be our fate—and the fate of the generations to come after us."

"The Republican party realizes the adequate federal relief is essential so long as unemployment prevails," he said. "No good Americans would think of letting the unemployed suffer or starve. But let us establish efficiency and economy in place of the present waste and extravagance."

Wants 'Honest Work'
He told the party to go beyond relief and restore to the people a chance to return to honest work at solid American wages.

Martin gave the G. O. P. for a battle cry: "Let's put America back to work."

Miss Marion E. Martin, assistant national chairman in charge of women's activities, told party workers:

"To save the American system, the Republican party must become the majority party in 1940. The starting point is 1938."

Raymond E. Willis, Indiana republican senatorial nominee, said that "as long as the American people remain a free people" no man ever would be elected president for a third term.

"And that goes," he added, "for Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Young Morgan later was strung up by his thumbs for fifteen minutes, after which he fainted. Police started a hunt for his tormentors.

Japanese Launch Major Offensive

Opposing Artillery Pounds
In Terrific Yangtze
Valley Battle

Shanghai.—(P)—Chinese and Japanese artillery pounded each other today in a terrific Yangtze valley battle presaging a redoubled Japanese drive toward Hankow before winter comes.

Japanese aircraft, warships and infantry joined in what foreign military observers called the biggest offensive so far in the undeclared war.

An intensive artillery duel tagged west of Lu-Shan mountain, 10 miles south of Kiating and close to the 90-mile Kiating-Nanchang railway, defenses of which the Japanese hope to crush.

Japanese aviators declared they bombed a Chinese truck train filled with soldiers between Nanchang, important Chinese air base, and Teian, 50 miles to the north. Three hundred were reported killed.

Guerrillas Score Victory
Southwest of Hangchow, on the southeastern coast, Chinese irregulars were said to have overpowered a Japanese garrison, inflicting hundreds of casualties, and captured 22 armored cars and tanks.

Chinese military headquarters announced the abandonment of Juichang, 21 miles west of Kiating and 100 air miles southeast of Hankow, the provisional capital.

A Japanese spokesman said an entire Chinese division had been wiped out in the fighting at Juichang. He said more than 3,000 Chinese dead were picked up from the battlefield and 300 prisoners taken.

Arrests Delayed In Prison Deaths

Coroner Charges 'Conspiracy to Cover Up
What Happened'

Philadelphia.—(P)—Coroner Charles H. Hersch charged today there was a "definite conspiracy" on the part of guards to cover up what really happened at the Philadelphia county prison where four convicts met mysterious deaths in super-heated punishment cells.

The coroner said the "conspiracy" had delayed temporarily his plans to arrest "higher ups" and a "blackjack squad" of guards he blamed for turning steam on in a battery of large radiators outside the cells and "literally baking the prisoners to death."

The convicts' bruised, nude bodies were found Monday in the prison "Klondike," a semi-dark, stuffy 15 by 50-foot building in which Hersch said 25 unruly prisoners were given the "heat cure" for participating in a hunger strike.

Reach Agreement in Strike at Eau Claire

Eau Claire, Wis.—(P)—The president of the Gillette Rubber company union announced today a disagreement resulting in a walkout Thursday was "practically settled now" and that "we hope to go back to work Monday."

The president, Harold E. House, made the statement as he emerged from a conference of union representatives and company officials.

House declined to reveal the nature of the dispute, saying it would be made known with announcement of the settlement.

Asked if the differences were between the company and the union, or merely within the union, House answered:

"I cannot say."

A meeting of Gillette workers has been called for tomorrow, House said the purpose was action on a settlement.

LUMBER YARD BURNS
Viroqua, Wis.—(P)—Fire destroyed the Taylor lumber yard building, together with its contents, today. The loss, estimated at $40,000, was covered by insurance.

2 British Pilots Killed in Battle With Arab Band

Authorities Take Precautions to Forestall
Jaffa Reprisals

Jaffa, Palestine.—(P)—Two royal air force men were killed when their plane, engaged in aiding troops in a night battle with an Arab band, was forced down.

The fight took place near Tel Karm and resulted in the deaths of 11 Arabs and the wounding of scores.

British authorities took intensive precautions to forestall Arab reprisals as the death toll of yesterday's market place bombing mounted.

Latest official figures gave 23 Arabs dead directly from the blast. More than 70 were wounded by the explosion.

Troops were rushed to all danger spots and armored cars took positions in Jaffa's main street. Machine-gun posts were set up to guard the border between Jaffa and the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv.

Business Suspended
All business in Jaffa was suspended and an indefinite curfew imposed.

The police force mobilized its full strength to prevent further outbreaks at Ramle, midway between Jerusalem and Tel Aviv, after an ambulance driver was wounded seriously.

Arabs called a strike throughout the Holy Land in sympathy for the victims and in protest to the government of the British-mandated territory. Arab shops were closed in Jerusalem and Haifa, both Arab strongholds.

In London, the colonial office issued a statement on yesterday's disorders, saying that "police and military action quickly restored calm."

Seek 10-Month Truce In North Shore Strike

Chicago.—(P)—A 10 months' truce in the Chicago North Shore and Milwaukee railroad strike was suggested today by federal and state conciliators.

The proposed compromise called for pre-strike wage scales to be paid 85 per cent in cash and 15 per cent in receiver's certificates.

It was drawn by Martin P. Durkin of the state department of labor, and Harry E. Scheck and John A. Moffitt, federal conciliators. The plan was submitted to O. David Zimring, counsel for the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees.

Employees ceased work Aug. 16 in protest against a 15 per cent wage slash which the railroad announced was imperative in view of operating losses. The line is in federal receivership.

Toronto Lawyer Will Quiz Sidley at Racine

Toronto (Canadian Press)—Eugene Haley, Toronto lawyer, will leave next week for Racine, Wis., to examine William Horlick Sidley under a motion granted to four executors of the will of his mother, the late Mabelle Horlick Sidley.

The move was the latest in an involved legal battle to prevent reopening of an adjournment inquest into the death here July 6 of the mated milk heiress.

Counsel for the four executors told the court they were unable to examine Sidley here.

Hearing of the executor's injunction to prevent continuation of the inquest will be delayed beyond Sept. 8, the date now fixed, if Haley is unable to complete evidence-taking in Racine.

Abandoned Auto Is Linked With Robbers Of Birnamwood Bank

Ewen, Mich.—(P)—An automobile believed to have been used by the gang that robbed the Birnamwood, Wis., bank Thursday was found abandoned here today while another car, a black machine owned by Dr. H. B. Hogue was stolen, according to state police of the Wakefield post. The thieves also stole a large quantity of gasoline in cans from a road camp.

In the abandoned car the state police found a road map with the name of Birnamwood circled with pencil marks. The abandoned car was one that had been stolen in Milwaukee. The robbers moved from the license plates, Wis. 416493, from the car they left here. The state police said they are positive the car thieves are the Birnamwood robbers.

U. S. Ready to Spend $25,000,000 To Buy Surplus Wheat for Export

Washington.—(P)—The United States, getting ready to spend up to $25,000,000 to subsidize wheat exports, told the world in effect today that it intended to hold its foreign markets for agricultural products, even if forced to use international trade practices the administration has condemned.

Secretary Wallace made this clear in addressing an international convention of agricultural economists in Canada, and it was reiterated by agriculture department officials already working on the wheat subsidy program.

The department announced it would purchase surplus wheat for export and would back the sale of 100,000,000 bushels in foreign markets.

DIRECTS AX WIELDERS

Chicago.—(P)—State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney's ax supply was badly dulled and nicked—but ready for use again today.

Since Aug. 17 the choppers have been lustily wielded in 17 hand-book establishments. In each case, furnishings were left in splinters by raiding squads.

The ax-men visited two betting establishments yesterday. In one, a basement room on Sixty-Third street, furnishings were scant and old fashioned, but on a second visit, the demolition crew, after shooting 500 customers away, found plenty of chrome and leather chairs on which to work in a Devon avenue resort.

Wallace Suggests World Conference On Farm Markets

Proposes Elimination of Barriers to International Trade

St. Anne de Bellevue, Quebec.—(P)—Secretary Wallace of the United States department of agriculture proposed today that farm officials of all nations meet to formulate a set of principles designed to assure farming classes a "fair" share of the world's income.

Such principles, he said, should eliminate barriers to international trade and should assure each agricultural exporting nation its proper share of the world markets.

Mr. Wallace spoke before an international conference of agricultural economists at MacDonald college.

"I am convinced," he said, "that all nations could agree on the desirability of systems of agriculture which will maintain soil fertility and which will tend to give the farm section of the population a fair share of the national income."

Would Abandon Barriers
The secretary, urging abandonment of trade barriers, said:

"In the realities of 1938 we find numerous countries pursuing their program of price-fixing and export subsidy with little regard to the fact that when carried to an extreme they have been mutually self-defeating."

"Such programs, when carried out by a number of countries at the same time, bring about an excessive increase in the supply of products on the international market and waste human effort which had best be devoted to producing something else."

New Trial Ordered in Bank Night Test Case

Kenosha.—(P)—A six man jury, trying William Exton, manager of a Kenosha theater, on charges of operating a lottery, failed to agree last night and Judge E. J. Rutz dismissed it and ordered a new trial. No date was set.

The case was to have been a test case of theater bank nights and their status in the state. Exton's bank nights were tested as subjects for the select a conviction would have started the case on its way to the supreme court for final interpretation.

The deadlocked jury was reported to have stood five to one for acquittal after nearly five hours of deliberation.

HOLD UP CANDIDATE

Waukesha, Wis.—(P)—Two youths last night held up Frank Pritikin, Republican candidate for Waukesha county sheriff, and robbed him of $10 in the general merchandise store he operates at Merton.

Berle Resigns Job to Resume Columbia Post

Roosevelt Accepts Resignation of Assistant Secretary

EFFECTIVE SEPT. 15

Expresses Appreciation for
'Splendid Cooperation'

Hyde Park, N. Y.—(P)—President Roosevelt accepted today the resignation of Adolf A. Berle, Jr., as assistant secretary of state, and wrote that Berle had given the administration "splendid cooperation."

Berle's resignation is effective Sept. 15. Summer White House authorities said he would return to his law professorship at Columbia university.

Berle, a New Yorker, sent the president his resignation a few days after Roswell Magill, under-secretary of the treasury, had resigned to return to Columbia. Magill also holds a professorship in the Columbia law school.

Enjoyed Work
"On the occasion of my appointment last February as assistant secretary of state," Berle wrote Mr. Roosevelt, "you were good enough to agree that the appointment might be considered temporary and that I might ask to be relieved when certain work was got forward."

"This has now been done. I have enjoyed every minute of it. The time has come to go home, and I offer my resignation to take effect at your pleasure in September."

Replying, the president said:

"It is with very real regret that I accept herewith your resignation as assistant secretary of state, to become effective Sept. 15."

"I want to take this opportunity also to thank you for the fine service you have rendered and to express my sincere appreciation for the splendid cooperation you have always given the administration."

"I send you every good wish for the future."

26 Killed When Rebels Attack Loyalist Ship

Gibraltar.—(P)—Four insurgent Spanish warships pounced today on a lone government destroyer after a week's cat-and-mouse game on the high seas and smashed it with a loss of at least 26 lives.

The government destroyer, the 1,650-ton Jose Luis Diaz, struggled into this port under her own power with the bodies of 20 of her dead in her water-logged compartments. She was down at the bows and in danger of sinking.

Powerful insurgent shore guns in Spanish Morocco, across the strait from the rock of Gibraltar, backed up the overwhelming strength of the insurgent cruiser Canarias and three insurgent destroyers.

They had lain in wait for a week before catching the Diaz in waters near where Lord Nelson fought the historic battle of Trafalgar.

Bartender Is Held for Slaying Man at Tavern

Oconomowoc, Wis.—(P)—Forrest Schaffer, 28, accused of shooting Raymond Byrne, 31, of Grellton to death, was named in a first degree murder warrant today.

Schaffer was arraigned in municipal court and ordered held for preliminary hearing next Tuesday.

District Attorney Scott Lowry said Schaffer had confessed he shot Byrne Thursday night during a quarrel in a tavern near Okauchee where Schaffer was tending bar.

The argument developed, Lowry said, over the question of whether Schaffer or Byrne should escort Miss Jeanette Anderson, 26, to her home in Appleton. She had visited the tavern with Byrne.

Government Soldiers Take 5 Towns in Drive

Hendaye, France (At the Spanish Frontier).—(P)—Government dispatches reported today that militiamen on the Estremadura front were driving south from Puebla de Alcocer to Casucera in an effort to cut off the spearhead of the insurgent threat against the Almaden mercury mines.

Five small towns were reported taken in the government advance, while two insurgent counter-attacks were said to have been repulsed.

On the Ebro front in eastern Spain, a Barcelona communique said, government forces were holding their own although Franco's troops were said to have captured several hills.

Week's Weather

Chicago.—(P)—The weather outlook for the period of Aug. 29 to Sept. 3.

Great Lakes—Local showers first of week; generally fair middle, showers again toward close; temperatures mostly near or below normal.

Upper Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys—Fair showers first of week; generally fair middle; showers again toward close; temperatures mostly near or below normal; central and north and north above normal extreme south portion.

Northern and central great plains—Generally fair most of week except local showers southeast portion Monday, and showers again south portion.

Warns Britain May Have to Fight If Hitler Starts War

Mayor Goodland to Address Freshman
Class at College

Accepts Invitation of President Barrows to Speak
At Convocation

Mayor John Goodland, Jr. today accepted an invitation from President Thomas N. Barrows of Lawrence college to speak at Lawrence Freshman week convocation Thursday night, Sept. 15, at Memorial chapel.

The convocation, coming the evening of the first day of Freshman week, Sept. 15-20, will be the first general meeting of the 1938 Lawrence college freshman class. President Barrows will introduce the mayor.

Freshman week will open at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, Sept. 15, with registration. Aptitude tests and various meetings will occupy the first-year students the remainder of the day.

Conferences with program advisers, registration photographs, and physical examinations are scheduled for Friday, Sept. 16, with the freshman reception that evening at President Barrows' home.

Rules and regulations of the college will be explained by Dean John S. Mills at convocation at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, Sept. 17. Conferences on fraternities and sororities will be held an hour later and a luncheon at 12:30 in the afternoon. An informal sports program will be held from 3:30 to 5:30 that afternoon in Alexander gymnasium. The freshman will attend their first campus dance that evening in the gym.

Church services and sorority teas are on the program Sunday, Sept. 18. Placement tests, conferences, and group lectures which will be given for men at Memorial chapel and for women at the Little Theater are scheduled for 11 o'clock Monday morning, Sept. 19. Conferences with advisers, photographs, and physical examinations will take up the remainder of the day.

Lawrence activities—athletics, debating, dramatics, music, etc.—will be outlined to the freshmen at a chapel meeting at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, Sept. 20, the last day of Freshman week. A general information forum will open an hour later.

Heil, Amle Will Talk in Appleton

Candidates for Governor
Senate to Appear Here
Thursday and Friday

Julius P. Heil, Milwaukee, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, and Congressman Thomas R. Amle, Elkhorn, of the First district, candidate for the Progressive nomination to the senate, will speak in Appleton next week. Amle will speak at Pierce park at 8 o'clock Thursday evening. Heil will talk at Pierce park at the same hour on Friday evening.

Arrangements for Amle's appearance here were made by Mrs. Amle, who conferred with Progressive leaders in Appleton yesterday. She was accompanied by Mrs. Walter A. Morton, wife of the University of Wisconsin professor. Mrs. Amle is at Manitowish today to make arrangements for Amle's appearance in that city.

Dr. C. L. Kolb, county Republican chairman, is making arrangements for Heil's appearance in Appleton. Several county Republican candidates are expected to appear on the program.

Nekoosa, Wis.—(P)—Richard Ziemke, 14, of Milwaukee, drowned when he fell into the Wisconsin river while fishing here yesterday. The boy stumbled over his pole, two companions said.

Baraboo Man Dies as Automobile Rolls Over

Baraboo, Wis.—(P)—Henry Nickels, 32, of Baraboo, was killed last night when his automobile overturned on Highway 33 near Lavalie. Frank Stone of Baraboo, a passenger in the car, escaped injury.

Nickels apparently lost control as the machine went down a hill. He tried to leap clear, but was caught under the car as it rolled over. His skull was crushed.

Kellogg Pact, Signed 10 Years Ago, Outlaws but Doesn't Prevent Wars

Washington.—(P)—A little gray-haired man in a cutaway coat picked up a gold pen and signed "Frank B. Kellogg" at the foot of a legal paper while 1,000 persons, nearly suffocating in the Salle de Jiffiorage of the French foreign office, applauded and cheered.

And thus, 10 years ago today, there came into the world the famed Kellogg pact to outlaw war.

It was a colorful scene in the Salle de Jiffiorage of the Quai d'Orsay where Woodrow Wilson brought the league of nations into being.

At a horseshoe table sat drooped a mustachioed Aristide Briand, French foreign minister and co-author of the pact. At his right was sawtooth, German

Easton Murder Trial Near End

Case Against North Dakota Farm Boy Expected
To Go to Jury

Michigan City, Ind.—(P)—A superior court jury of twelve men took under consideration this afternoon the fate of Orelle J. Easton, Valley City, N. D., youth charged with the slaying of Indiana state policeman W. Raymond Dixon.

The defense was based on a plea of insanity.

Michigan City, Ind.—(P)—A jury of 12 men was expected to get the under case of Orelle J. Easton, 25 year old Valley City, N. D., farm boy, in LaPorte superior court late today at the end of the second week of his trial for the slaying of State Policeman W. Raymond Dixon, 27, of South Bend.

State's attorneys and Defense Counsel Paul Krueger of Michigan City had three hours each today for closing arguments.

Dixon was shot on a country road near here on the night of June 26. He was questioned by two young men in a stalled automobile. The two men then kidnapped two LaPorte county deputy sheriffs and made the officers drive them to Illinois.

The next day a posse captured Orelle and shot and killed his brother, Clarence, 27, in a farm yard near Desmolen, Ill. Authorities charged them with a series of robberies through the midwest.

Youth Killed, Two Hurt When Auto Misses Curve

Edgerton, Wis.—(P)—Donald Knight, 18, of Stoughton, was killed and two companions were injured last night in an automobile accident on County Trunk N, about 11 miles north of here. Dane county police officers said the car driven by Edward Qualley, 18, of Stoughton, upset on a curve, Qualley and Howard Dragsvold, 17, of Stoughton, were injured.

Ickes Takes Pokes At Dies Committee And Senator Glass

Tacoma, Wash.—(P)—The Dies committee investigating un-American activities and Virginia's senior Democratic Senator Carter Glass came in for censure today from Secretary Ickes.

Addressing the Young Men's Business club Ickes declared yesterday:

"I find while I was in Alaska the red hunters swung into action again."

They even went to Hollywood and made the amazing discovery little Shirley Temple is a dangerous red. Imagine the great committee raiding her nursery and seizing her dolls as evidence. It is all so very silly."

He chastized Senator Glass as typical of "political hypocrites that bite the hand that feeds them."

"The republican press calls this 'rugged individual' as another Horatio at the bridge because of his bitter attacks on economic policies of the government. Yet no senator comes offener and with more insistence for PWA grants than this same Senator Glass."

Chancellor Backs Up Neville Chamberlain's Warning PLEADS FOR PEACE

Asks 'Just Settlement'
In Czechoslovakian Situation

Lanark, Scotland.—(P)—Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, served notice on an anxious world today that Great Britain might have to fight if Germany started a war in central Europe.

The former foreign minister repeated, "as holding good today," Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's declaration before the house of commons March 24 that "if war were to break out it would be unlikely to be confined to those who have assumed such obligations"—to aid Czechoslovakia against aggression.

An hour before the chancellor was scheduled to speak he revised his speech and put his own punch behind Chamberlain's March warning that Britain might be forced to fight.

"The beginning of a conflict is like the beginning of a fire in a high wind," he said.

Points To Czechoslovakia
"It may be limited at the start. But who can say how far it would spread or how much destruction it would do or how many may be called to bear?"

In another last-minute insertion, Sir John added this warning:

"This very case of Czechoslovakia may be so critical for the future of Europe that it would be impossible to assume a limit to the disturb-

ASSAILS HITLER

Theydon Bois, England.—(P)—Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty in the World war, assailed Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany today for "endangering peace" by putting 1,500,000 soldiers on a war footing.

He declared the British government was right in letting the world know it was capable of "doing its duty."

The elder statesman who frequently has been a bitter critic of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain thus supported Sir John Simon's warning today to the reich, delivered only shortly before in Scotland.

ance that a conflict might involve and every one in every country who considers the consequences has to bear in mind the consequences."

Sir John coupled a firm warning that there "is no limit to the reactions of war" today with an unmistakable plea to Chancellor Adolf Hitler to do his "duty" and take outside pressure off the dispute in Czechoslovakia where the nazisupported German sudeten party demands autonomy.

The chancellor of the exchequer spoke at a conservative party demonstration in this Scottish town after significant conferences during the week with Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax.

McCormick Says Minton Aims for Press Censorship

Publisher of Chicago Tribune Replies to Indiana Senator

Chicago — Colonel Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, said today Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana "has become the outstanding spokesman for a government censorship of newspapers."

The publisher's remark was made in a prepared radio speech which was broadcast as he replied to an address by Senator Minton to the American Press society in New York recently.

Attacked Tribune

"In that speech," Colonel McCormick said, "Mr. Minton made an attack upon the Tribune and upon me by way of abuse of newspapers in general and upon the Associated Press, chief news gathering organization of this country."

"Other newspapers and the Associated Press are able to speak for themselves. What I want to say in reply to Senator Minton is that his animosity as it relates to the Tribune and to me is inspired by resentment against our newspaper because we have constantly and consistently exposed the alliance between crime and politics in Indiana."

The Candidates

Brief Sketches of the Men Seeking Nominations

JOSHUA L. JOHNS
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Joshua L. Johns, Algonquin, Republican candidate for congress in the Eighth district, was born in Richland county, in a log house which was his home until he was sixteen. Oldest of family of eleven children, got a sketchy primary education, so that he finished common school at 16.

Since then has had a varied career. He became vice president of a Richland Center bank in 1905, left that job to enter the University of Chattanooga and later Yale University. As a bank vice president, he was the youngest in the United States. . . .

... Began the practice of law in Tennessee, lectured in law school on corporation law, came to Wisconsin in 1911 where he formed a partnership with L. H. Bancroft of Richland Center who had just been elected Attorney General in 1911. He organized another bank in Richland county in 1913, and moved to Algoma in 1916 to look after business interests there.

... Moving to Appleton to practice law in 1920, he remained ten years. Prominent in the Wisconsin Bar Association, as membership chairman helped membership to grow from 450 to almost 2,000.

Political experience includes one year as private secretary to Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman in 1928. . . . At that time he got a commission as colonel in the National Guard. . . . Dabbles at writing, is author of numerous articles on cooperatives, conservation, and an outline of citizenship written for Kiwanis International and now in its sixth printing.

world there is no limit to the reactions of war.

"Sir John continued: "The British government therefore have used their influence with both sides in the Czechoslovak dispute to urge the adoption of reasonableness in efforts to reach a solution."

Viscount Runciman, unofficial British referee in the German-Czechoslovak dispute over minority rights, was sent to Praha neither as "arbitrator nor judge," Sir John said, but as "mediator and friend."

The chancellor concluded his speech with this plan call to Germany:

"The good wishes of all the world which realizes how much hangs upon his success, are with Lord Runciman in the task of mediation that, with such public spirit, he has undertaken."

"He is at Prague at this moment in no sense as a representative of the British government but as a representative of all men who desire justice and love peace."

"I am convinced that all reasonable persons in every nation must desire to assist rather than hamper him in his endeavor to bring the several elements of the Czechoslovak problem to a just settlement."

"Meanwhile it is the duty not only of us but of all others—and we are all concerned in world peace—to do nothing to imperil a satisfactory solution."

"And as I have said, we firmly believe that if the right spirit prevails a peaceful settlement which should reconcile legitimate interests and claims should, by dint of patience and goodwill, be attained."

ISSUES PLEA

London—(AP)—Great Britain issued a plea today to "all quarters" to lessen the tension in Czechoslovakia.

A government statement welcomed the "conciliatory attitude" of the Czechoslovak government in offering a new basis for negotiations with Nazi-supported, autonomy-seeking Sudeten Germans.

British officials expressly condemned the action of the Sudeten German party in relaxing the discipline of its members in a proclamation yesterday that freed them to use force in "self-defense."

Of the Prague government's concessions, the statement said:

Want Tension Laxed

"It is to be hoped this contribution may meet with a constructive response and that every effort will be made in all quarters concerned, directly or indirectly, to refrain from any action which may heighten the tension."

Added:

"Issue by the Sudeten German party of a proclamation relaxing the admirable discipline hitherto displayed is much deplored."

The government statement given out a few hours before the speech of Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, on the same subject, was received with some surprise and was generally accepted as an indication of the British government's increasing anxiety over the Czechoslovak situation.

ALLEGED INSULT

Berlin—(AP)—The German minister to Praha has been instructed to protest energetically against an alleged insult to the memory of German soldiers in the World War by the daily newspaper, Morav-Skolsky Denik.

The minister further was ordered to demand punishment of the responsible editors and guarantee that such insults will not be repeated.

Gardner Dam Old Timers Return From 3-Day Trip

BY BILL SPENGLER

Gardner Dam — Thirty-four Old Timers' Week campers returned to an unpopulated Gardner Dam from a 3-day pioneering trip and a 3-day horseback riding on Thursday afternoon.

Of the forty-two campers, about twenty hiked back 10 miles back to camp, while the rest of the group came down to the seven miles of Wolf River by canoe.

During the 3-day, 20-day trip, work on pioneer trails, tent bance and other outdoor life was done. Early stories and well-thought-of lean-tops were constructed, a camp kitchen was made, and a few scouts built bridges to the spring and improved the source of water by building a fire sides and bottom.

Ten boys and girls on the pioneering trip were Jim Austin, Troop 3 Neenan, who got second class in cooking and knife-axe, Tom Gardner, Troop 2, Appleton, with requirements in cooking and first aid, and Gordon Nooyen, Troop 3, Neenan, who passed cooking, knife-axe, and signaling.

Join in Outing

Included on this hike were Bud Falatic and Tom Gardner, Troop 2, Appleton; Junior Carter, Troop 4, Appleton; Dick Ferron, Troop 6, Appleton; Morris Rosenblatt, Troop 20, Kaukauna; and Jim Austin, Dick Jepson, Milton Leiss, Gordon Nooyen, Jim Peterson, and Fred Rasmussen, Troop 3, Neenan and Menasha. Returning to Gardner Dam on rats were Herb Merrill and Frank Heckrodt, Troop 3, Neenan; and Menasha; Carl Neidhold,

Hamilton Attacks Roosevelt During Cornfield Rally

ministration forces had plunged the nation into economic depression and are "gambling with the fate of the nation" in the keynote speech today at the Republican "cornfield conference" on the Capehart farm near here.

The meeting, held in a 120-acre tent city near this southern Indiana town of 10,000 population, opened the Republican campaign in 11 midwestern states and the fall campaign to elect a Republican congress.

Thousands of party workers were present, including Republican national officials, leaders from the midwest and Indiana adherents from precinct committeemen up Party leaders urged election of new Republican congressmen this fall to set the stage for a strong presidential campaign in 1940.

"Roosevelt Depression"

Representative Wadsworth, 61-year-old upstate New York gentleman farmer, said President Roosevelt "more than any other person or group of persons" was responsible for what he termed the "second or Roosevelt depression."

He said the country was on the road to recovery when, in February, 1937, the president sent congress a message "urging the passage of legislation which would enable him to pack the supreme court."

"Instantly the whole picture changed," he said. "The shock was too great to be endured by a people beginning to recover their breath from the very moment prices began to fall."

He said the president was attempting to "subdue the congress and the courts to the executive will." He called on his party to stop him.

"The administration is gambling," he went on. "The fate of the nation is the stake. The gambler lost on his first throw of the dice and the nation will lose on the second throw — if we do not return to sanity and that mighty sound."

Frank Speaks

Homier E. Capehart of Buffalo, N. Y., Hoosier-born vice president of the Wurlitzer company, was the host. The rally was held on his 400-acre farm. Indiana leaders estimated the New York manufacturer would spend $25,000 on the affair in his avowed effort to "kill the New Deal."

Dr. Glenn Frank, chairman of the national program committee, charged at a "preview" meeting on the Capehart farm last night that the president had failed to solve basic problems of industry, labor, agriculture and money.

"Until we actually get American industry in high gear, producing a greater volume of goods and services than it has ever yet produced," he said, "the abundant life will remain no more than a campaign talking point, the 'one-third' will remain ill-fed, ill-clothed and ill-housed, unemployment will remain a cancer at the nation's heart and the wellsprings of our prosperity will tend to go dry."

Wants Definite Program

Washington — (AP)—Homier Capehart, the eastern industrialist who made possible the Republican "cornfield conference" here, appealed today to the Republican party to establish a definite program to defeat the New Deal because "most of the time" when people listen to "Republican speeches all they hear is negative thoughts and the speaker is against everything and everybody."

"I am sick and tired," Capehart said, "and I know millions of other people are—of hearing business men and men of all other groups condemn and talk against the New Deal and then do absolutely nothing about it."

"Fundamentally Wrong"

"We are glad that you are here because this is your party. The problems discussed here are your problems. With God's help maybe what we are doing here today will be an inspiration to millions of others to take an active part in a program to defeat that which would destroy them."

"I am against the New Deal. I think it is fundamentally wrong and contrary to American ideals. It must be stopped."

"Our people are divided into two distinct classes. On one side are the people that are the blind followers of the New Deal's despotic ruler. President Roosevelt teaches the doctrine of class hatred and has made his followers afraid of all who do not agree 100 per cent with him."

"Millions of Americans are praying that the Republican party will bring forth real leadership in answer to this challenge of the Roosevelt New Deal in a very frank and effective way."

SOBS STORY OF KILLING

Ramon Lee Hughes (right), 22, walked up to Traffic Officer George Mildaun (left) in San Francisco and mumbled that he had killed a woman. He pulled a piece of the woman's flesh from his pocket and led officers to a hotel room where Jean Montgomery, 30, a divorcee, lay dead, beaten and mutilated. Police were told that Mrs. Montgomery had arrived in California from Cleveland, O., five years ago.

Lost 65 Pounds While Wandering in Desolate Brush Country for 33 Days

Cumberland, Wis.—(AP)—Sixty-five pounds lighter after wandering 33 days in the desolate brush country of northern Wisconsin, Mrs. Barbara Graf, 54, was in a hospital here today with a physician's assurance she would recover fully.

Mrs. Graf, widowed mother of eleven, was found yesterday by Arthur Ailing, WPA timekeeper, while she was reclining in a pasture less than two miles from her Timberland farm home.

Incoherently at times, she told of becoming lost, then later asserted she had wandered purposely because "they were always after me."

"I felt I wasn't wanted at home and thought I would rather be in the woods with God," Mrs. Graf said from her hospital bed last night.

Physically Sound

Her first regular meal, after her diet of apples and berries washed down by water from streams and pools of the cutover area, was a dish of milk toast. Dr. R. C. Thompson, a Cumberland physician, said that except for her greatly weakened condition she is physically sound.

Mrs. Graf left her home July 25 to get provisions at the Timberland crossroads store, near her farm, and disappeared without a trace. She was given up for dead two weeks ago when bloodhounds failed to track her.

Ailing and a neighbor, Wayland Wautey, carried her home. Later she was removed to the hospital.

Suffered from Exposure

Ailing said Mrs. Graf told him she was "excited" when she realized she had lost her way. Several times, Mrs. Graf said, she thought she saw her home in the distance, only to have it "fade" into the thicket. She had been in the vicinity where she was found all the time, she said.

Her principal suffering was from exposure. Recent nights have been marked by temperatures in the 40's, and there have been rains. The insects were not so bad, she said, but at night snakes crawled over her as she lay on the bare ground.

Montana Senator Would Aid Pope As Independent

Washington — (AP)—Senator Murray of Montana, a member of the Democratic Senatorial campaign committee, said today he would offer his aid if Senator Pope (D-Idaho) sought reelection as an independent.

Pope, a consistent administration supporter, was defeated for renomination by Representative D. Worth Clark who announced he would not be an "administration yes-man."

Murray emphasized that he was speaking as an individual, but said that if the question came before the senatorial campaign committee he would vote to support Pope.

Murray said also that the senatorial committee should give full support to Senator Duffy (D-Wis.) who is seeking reelection. Senator LaFollette (P-Wis.), who with his brother, Governor Philip LaFollette, recently organized a new national political party, has announced he would support the Progressive candidate. LaFollette supported Duffy in the 1932 election.

CCC Workers Help in Hunt for Mission Man

Chicago—(AP)—One hundred CCC workers aided in a search today of the Des Plaines forest preserve area for Julius Borgeson, 45, a laundry owner, whose wife told police she feared he was a victim of labor violence.

Yesterday, his light delivery truck was found in a lonely section of the preserve, his smashed straw hat on its seat.

Suburban and county police began a search after Borgeson's wife told authorities he recently had refused to submit to demands of a labor union. She said he drove his laundry truck rather than hire a union driver.

His wife said Borgeson left home at 7:30 yesterday morning to make a few calls before going to the laundry. He did not arrive there.

Clerk to Revise Records, Lists Under Ward Plan

Outlines Changes to be Made When Charter Law Goes Into Effect

Although he is marking time until after the fall elections, City Clerk Carl J. Beecher already is making plans for the change in Appleton from six to eighteen wards under the charter ordinance adopted by voters last April.

The first election to be held under the new charter will be the primary next March when men will be nominated to fill aldermanic posts and representatives will be named to the county board from each of the 18 new wards.

An attempt by aldermen to defeat the new legislation before it had a chance to function failed Wednesday when Orland S. Loomis, attorney general, ruled that the charter ordinance could not be re-submitted to voters until two years had elapsed. Aldermen last May ordered the city attorney to seek Loomis' opinion on the legality of re-submitting the ordinance. The legal question arose because of conflicting state laws in the sections on elections and charter laws.

The new ordinance will make necessary a change in election records, lists, election board personnel and in the various council committees. New polling places will have to be found in some of the new wards, the clerk said.

Although no definite action has been taken, it is expected that a referendum will be submitted to the people either in the spring primary or the April election lowering aldermen's salaries to comply with the relative areas to be served.

Henry Charges Road Funds are Diverted

Richland Center, Wis.—(AP)—Robert K. Henry, coalition candidate for governor, charged in an address here last night that the state progressive administration consistently has diverted highway funds to other purposes.

"In spite of denials by the governor that gas tax and automobile license revenues are not being used for purposes other than construction and maintenance of highways, one of his own progressive assemblymen, a member of the state emergency board, admitted on the floor of the house 16 months ago that the highway fund was short $18,000,000," Henry said.

"That assemblyman also admitted that the general fund, into which all highway revenues are placed, was at that time $13,000,000 short of sufficient money to repay the 'loan,' and that it could never be repaid without levying new taxes," Henry added.

Chippewa Falls, Wis.—(AP)—Carl Bohman, 75, Pike lake farmer gored by a bull he was leading to water, died in a hospital here yesterday.

Tribal Dances, Legends to Be Enacted During Pageant

Keshena—Many old tribal dances and legends of the Menominee Indians will be reenacted the evenings of Aug. 31 and Sept. 1 when an Indian pageant, "Tales of a Thunderbird," will be presented at Board Hill bowl on the Menominee reservation.

Written by Hans Josef Schmidt, the pageant this year will feature a group of 60 native dancers in colorful Indian costumes, dancing ceremonies of ancient origin. A huge thunderbird, mythical servant of the great spirit, also will appear to guide the destinies of the imaginary characters living in the pageant.

The setting for the show is the natural woodland bowl near Keshena and the Indian fair grounds.

A seating capacity of over 2,000 will enable spectators to view the pageant to be presented under colored lighting.

"This pageant is not just merely another Indian pow-wow, but is a serious attempt to present true Indian culture amid the refinements of the present day theater techniques," its director said. "The signal success of 'Oleikona' presented last year is proof enough that the public wants its Indian entertainment on a high level. The true Indian dances and ceremonies are much more colorful and interesting than those usually associated with roadside pow-wows."

Beginning with the legend of the creation of the Menominee Indian totems, the pageant will tell the story of the first hunting bundle, used by the Indians to hunt game. Courtship and marriage customs will be shown by a romantic thread running through the pageant. The pageant will be climaxed by the trial of a murderer according to the old tribal custom. These episodes will be interspersed by social dances, hunting dance, the unique beggar's dance and several others. Jim Wolf and Jim Soman, Menominee medicine men, are arranging the old dances and ceremonies.

The pageant will be presented nightly at 8:15, and will be the only evening attraction of the Keshena Indian fair. A special performance will be given for Labor day vacationers Sunday night, Sept. 4. Assisting Mr. Schmidt, who is drama supervisor for the WPA recreation division, are James Frechette, Amos Striker, Lee Waukechon, Bob Deer, and Joe Warrington, Ralph Fredenberg, superintendent of the reservation, is also assisting in sponsoring the production. The Menominee Indian band will play during the pageant.

Duffy Advocates Fraternal Spirit

United States Senator Addresses Elks at LaCrosse

LaCrosse, Wis.—(AP)—Promotion of the fraternal spirit gives a finer temper to life and an appreciation of liberties enjoyed in this country, Senator F. Ryan Duffy said yesterday addressing the state Elks' convention here.

"The fraternal spirit," Duffy said, "is perhaps more responsible than anything else for a realization of man's responsibility to man. If life were without this feeling, it would indeed be a 'dog eat dog' proposition."

A. J. Geniesse of Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin Elks' association, told delegates "our great order has grown with the communities in which it is represented."

Dr. Edward J. McCormick, Toledo, Ohio, grand exalted ruler, was honored at a banquet.

Wisconsin Rapids won the ritualistic team contest, Baraboo was second and Two Rivers third.

Dick Calkins, of Racine, won the constitution scholarship contest, with Margery Shale of Baraboo, second and Ted Oppgaard of Wausau, third.

Clifford Thompson, one of the world's tallest men, will be the master of ceremonies during the races. Music and other entertainment will be provided between races.

Ballistics Report Links Three Murders

Chicago—(AP)—Police ballistics experts yesterday reported that the bullets which killed Lou Mosinski and Bruno Switay Aug. 6 were fired from the gun which had been used 16 months ago to kill Oscar Klinger.

Mosinski and Switay were killed as they sat in an automobile on the west side. Klinger, a gambler whom police said was connected with a Milwaukee syndicate, was slain in his poolroom in April, 1937.

Police said motives in both of the unsolved slayings may have been strife in the gambling racket.

Five Members of Klub Team Placed On All-City Squad

Four From Mankosky's, One From Kappell's Win Places

Kaukauna—Five members of the Kaukauna Klubs, city league champs, four members of the Mankosky Fuels, runner up, and one member of Kappell's Tavern team were named to an all-city team this week.

The lineup is as follows: Bill Kuchmeister, Klubs, pitcher; John Niesch, Klubs, catcher; Vic Gerhartz, Fuels, first base; Tony Van Drasek, Fuels, second base; Yes Kappell, Kappell's Tavern, short stop; Art Koehne, Klubs, third base; Lee Lambie, Fuels, left field; Bill Peterson, Klubs, center field; Toby Kiffe, Fuels, right field; and Ed Eiting, Klubs, short centerfield.

Kuchmeister gained the honor by not losing a single game all year. In addition, he pitched the Klubs to a victory over the league all-stars in a night game this week.

Outstanding Catcher

Niesch stood head and shoulders above the other receivers both figuratively and literally. There was seldom a passed ball with him behind the bat, and his club figured in all of his team's wins. Vic Gerhartz, first base, was the league's leading hitter, and his height enabled him to grab most anything while fielding his position. Tony Van Drasek at second, Yes Kappell at short and Art Koehne at third would be the fastest combination in the loop and pack plenty of batting power.

Lee Lambie in left field ranked next to Gerhartz as the most dangerous batter in the circuit. Bill Peterson in center is the fastest man on the team, and won more than one game for the Klubs with his home run hitting. Toby Kiffe was the sparkplug of the Fuels with his hitting and outfielding and can't be omitted from an all-star aggregation. A ball hit anywhere in the direction of Ed Eiting in short centerfield wasn't even run out. The big Klub player didn't miff one all year and although his stickwork fell off toward the end of the year was always dangerous at the plate.

Training School Will Begin Fall Term Next Week

Classes Will Get Underway Monday: One Change In Faculty

Kaukauna—The fall term of Outagamie Rural Normal school will begin next Monday, with registration received up to that day. Principal Walter P. Hagman said this morning. The term opens a week earlier than other schools, but graduation exercises are at the same time. Classes begin on Monday.

A first and second year course is offered at the school. Those who will graduate this June are the ones who took the first year course last year and will finish this year. There are about 20 such students. Under new regulations, in order to teach this fall in rural schools, teachers must have two years of work.

Any graduate of the 2-year course may enter a state teachers' college rural department and receive full credit for the study here, being able to get a degree with two more years of work.

With one exception the faculty remains the same as last year. Miss Margaret Peterson, Britt, Iowa, will teach this year, taking the place of Miss Margaret Phillips the first semester and of Miss Ruth McFarlane the second. Both have been granted a half year's leave of absence to attend college.

Banquet for Valley Catholic League to Be Held at Kaukauna

COLLECTOR MOUNTS ARROWHEADS ON DISPLAY BOARDS

Kaukauna Man Collects Over 1,200 Arrowheads

Kaukauna—There's a man in Kaukauna who thinks nothing of arising at 6 o'clock, walking 25 miles a day and returning home with nothing earned. It's William E. Steffen, 212 Maple street, who in the course of 25 years of searching for Indian relics has gathered more than 1,200 arrowheads and other productions of the redmen.

His collection is mounted on five boards, the largest containing 366 specimens. Many have offered to purchase them, one being willing to pay $500, and museums have wanted them to display. Some of his best heads, those of copper, are valued at a dollar an inch, with ordinary long ones valued at 50 cents an inch. Collectors needing a specimen or two to round out a collection may pay up to $25 for just one, Steffen said.

Nearly all from the Valley. Almost all of the heads are from the Fox river valley. A favorite stamping ground is the territory between here and Little Rapids. Steffen used to, and still does occasionally, catch a coal barge on the rapids early in the morning and tramp the way back, often being late for supper.

Almost every type of arrowhead is in the collection. Some of his finest ones are warheads, small and almost perfect flat triangles, which Steffen said Indians used to dip into poisoned meat before shooting. Such an arrow would come off the shaft when the enemy tried to extract it. Some of them are still blood-stained. Other ones have been used on spears, especially for getting fish, and have a broader point.

Steffen has several Indian drills, comparable to a small modern chisel, in his collection. These are much scarcer than arrowheads, as only about one is found to every 5,000 arrowheads.

'Marie Antoinette' Heads Bill at Rio

Norma Shearer Tops Outstanding Cast in Story Of French Queen

"Marie Antoinette" as it was revealed last night at the Rio Theatre, is a triumph of the motion picture art. More than that, it is a triumph for Norma Shearer.

Magnificent in its pageantry, with eye-filling beauty of brilliant costume and setting, flawlessly cast with such famed film names as Tyrone Power, John Barrymore, Anita Louise, Joseph Schildkraut, Gladys George and scores of others, these were secondary to Miss Shearer's absorbingly-human interpretation of a woman's sometimes carefree, oftentimes desperate, seeking for happiness.

The story has gripping power on the screen because it is so simply told. Miss Shearer's "Antoinette" is a girl eager to be in love and to be loved, who finds herself married to a morose husband, a role superbly played by Robert Morley, young English actor making his first motion picture appearance. When he fails her and his country through weakness of mind and spirit, she seeks escape in mad pleasures and dangerous flirtations. But in the end, she cannot escape her destiny as the last queen of France.

Director W. S. Van Dyke II, not content with merely scratching the surface of history, has probed deeply into the hearts of his fascinating characters, and gives them vitality and realism as people motivated by desires, hates, loves and ambitions, no different from those of today.

This is a picture that can be heartily recommended to those of every age who enjoy an exciting, adventurous motion picture, replete with thrills and romance.

'Blockade' Is Coming To Appleton Theater

Stirring events of the civil war which is now raging in Spain form the background of the romance which is enacted by Madeleine Carroll and Henry Fonda in "Blockade." Walter Wagner's timely and thrilling drama which will be at the Appleton Theater 3 days starting Wednesday, August 31, September 1 and 2. The latest editorial of William Dietrich maintains a strictly neutral attitude and concentrates its dramatic situations in the lives of a few people, thus humanizing the conflict so that those outside the war area can appreciate the condition which has disrupted the life of an entire nation.

"Blockade" tells the story of Norma and Marco (Miss Carroll and Fonda), a beautiful, sophisticated girl and a handsome, simple young farmer, who meet in sunny, peaceful Spain and fall in love. Norma has come to join her father, Basil, in the hope of settling down in this peaceful land. She finds that unknown to her, he and his life-long associate, the suave Andre Gallinet, have been engaged in fomenting war, hoping to profit from future activities as spies. War bursts like a bomb over the serene countryside. Marco and his friend Luis, drop their ploughs and take up guns to defend the land they love. Marco kills Norma's father as a spy and arrests her as his accomplice. An unexpected happening in the high command turns the tide and brings about an ending that is as unexpected as it is dramatic. Others who are outstanding are Leo Carrillo, John Halliday, Reginald Denny and Robert Warwick.

Also included in this program is "On the Great White Trail" with James Newell as Renfrew. Supporting him is Terry Walder as Kay Larkin. The story deals with the troubles of a young sergeant of the mounties who finds he must trail down and arrest the father of the girl he has fallen in love with—the owner of a number of trading posts in the far north. In the course of the action, Newell is heard in three new songs written especially for this production. Robert Terry and Albert Gribbon as members of the force whose love for practical pranks keeps the hero in constant hot water.

Harold Lloyd Is Star Of 'Professor Beware'

Harold Lloyd, who was last seen on local screens over a year and a half ago in "The Milky Way," returns Wednesday and Thursday to the Rio Theater in his latest comedy, "Professor Beware." In this story of a down-and-out archaeologist in search of a job Lloyd has surrounded himself with an able supporting cast that includes Raymond Walburn, Lionel Stander, William Frawley, Cora Witherspoon and his brand new leading lady, Thelma Welch.

Hilarious hi-jinx are in order when Lloyd stars as a screwy cross-country jaunt in search of a job. It seems that Lloyd, employed as an Egyptologist in a museum, loses his pants . . . and his job, in order to help a pretty girl, Miss Welch, get a screen test.

Penniless, with the law at his heels, and a pretty girl hotfooting it after him, his adventures follow in a whirl. He is forced to spend a night on the desert alone with Miss Welch, but wary of love he sneaks away to continue his lonesome travels. Continuing towards New York via the freight train route, he teams up with two tramps, Stander and Walburn, who contribute their zany share to the comedy. Adventure follows adventure, and before he knows what's what Lloyd finds himself marrying an heiress to escape the wrath of the law. Sparkling with hilarious scenes of comedy set against the spooky background of a mysterious ghost house, and featuring Paul Kelly, William Lundigan, Constance Moore, and other well known players, "The Missing Guest," is featured on the other half of this twin bill program.

APPLETON TO SHOW 'RACKET BUSTERS'

The Warner Bros.-Cosmopolitan production, "Racket Busters," which will open Saturday, Sept. 3rd, at the Appleton Theatre is an absorbing, gripping, upsetting tale fashioned around a topic taken right from the front pages of today's newspapers. The title is self-explanatory. The picture is a thoroughgoing expose of the cancer of racketeering eating at the heart of almost every large American community today, and, more important, it tells in detail—and exciting—fashion how this malignant growth can not only be halted but eradicated. Heading the cast of "Racket Busters" are such players as Humphrey Bogart, George Brent, Gloria Dickson, Allen Jenkins, Walter Abel and many others.

Rocky Formations Show Wide Variety of Ferns

BY CLARA HUSSONG

Shady limestone and sandstone ledges and outcroppings of granite are ideal places to explore if you wish to look for plants which are seldom found except in rocky locations. A number of ferns make their homes in such places and a leisurely exploration of a limestone ledge or a granite boulder will show you the numerous varieties which nestle in moist crevices or mossy ledges.

How do these plants gain a foothold on the rock? The first plants to take possession of a bare rock are lichens, to whom soil is not necessary for growth. The powdery spores of this low form of plant life are scattered by the wind and some of them land on rocks. In a short time the bare rocks are covered with crinkled rosettes and flat discs of lichen. Most of these are grayish, yellowish or pale green. Lichen have no chlorophyll, green plant coloring, and are never bright or deep green.

The consequent disintegration of the lichens form a soil base which mosses and liverworts find suitable for growth. In turn, these plants form more soil and soon there is enough for ferns and flowering plants to establish themselves. In time even shrubs and trees find a foothold.

Limestone More Fertile Limestone and sandstone cliffs are more fertile with fern life than granite, although there is one hardy fern which you can be sure to find on mossy granite rocks. This is the common polypody, a dark green, leathery fern which remains green all winter although in the coldest months the fronds have a tendency to curl up. This fern is found in rocky spots in every part of the state.

If you look on the under side of a polypody frond you will find large orange dots, arranged in rows. These are the spore-cases, corresponding to seed pods in flowering plants. Those fronds which bear the spores are called "fertile" and those without them are "sterile."

There are several more rock-growing ferns which remain green all winter. The Christmas fern, known as "dancer fern" by the florists, has been found only in one spot in Wisconsin, in Rocky woods near Racine. Its near relative, Braun's holly fern, grows on shaded rocks in the northern part of the state.

Travel Creates Name Another evergreen variety, the walking fern, acquired its name through its habit of traveling or spreading in somewhat the same manner as strawberries. Instead of traveling by runners, however, the walking fern starts new plants from the tips of its long-tapering fronds. This form of reproduction is common in some tropical ferns, but is usually accompanied by a loosening of its spore reproduction.

The spore-cases of the walking fern are linear in outline and are scattered irregularly on the under surface of the glossy, blue-green leaves. Wherever I have found the walking fern it has always nestled in a thick bed of moss. In this area it can be looked for on mossy ledges in Door county, at Maribel Caves and on the eastern bank of Lake Winnebago.

Besides these hardy varieties we have a number of more delicate rock ferns. Two common ones are the bladder ferns, the berry and the fragile bladder ferns. As they hang over a ledge their long-trailing lacy fronds make a pretty picture against the bare rock. Sometimes they are found at the mossy foot of a bluff or their pale green, sinuous fronds screen a woodland spring.

Bladder ferns grow everywhere in the state except in dry sandy regions. They spread in three ways: by the roots, by spores and by the little bulblets found on the underside of the leaves. In summer these bulblets drop off and start a new plant.

Grows On Rocks

Sometimes in looking at the side of a limestone bluff you will see a dainty little fern seeming to grow right on the bare rock. This is very likely one of our woodsia ferns which need just a dot of soil in order to subsist. In Wisconsin we have three woodsia: Cathcart's has been found in the Dells of the St. Croix, blunt-nosed, in limestone and quartzite near Devil's lake, and rusty woodsia, generally, distributed over the state. You can tell it from

SONJA HENIE IN NEW PICTURE

Sonja Henie, the queen of the silver skates, returns to the screen with a new leading role in "My Lucky Star." The cast includes Joan Davis, Cesar Romero, Buddy Ebsen, Arthur Treacher, Louise Hovick, and Billy Gilbert.

As the queen of a co-ed campus, Sonja shares sweet secrets, learns love the good young American way, forever and ever—and scintillates in six unforgettable ice spectacles of living beauty unequalled before.

'Boy of the Streets' Is Showing Today and Sunday

From out of the sordid depths of the great city slums rises a triumphant story of youth and honor and a boy's fight to find himself. It is Monogram's splendid "Boy of the Streets," showing at the Elite theater today and Sunday, and its star is Jack Cooper, whose moving characterization of Chuck, the tenement tough, definitely establishes him as an adult star.

"Boy of the Streets" is a story of the children who grow up in the sordid shadows of the tenements. The camera focuses on Chuck, a success worshipper, leader of a gang of young hoodlums, catching him at the sensitive adolescent age when he is first forced to decide what is right and what is wrong. Chuck's only ambition is to be a big shot, like his father, and when he suffers youth's greatest disillusionment—the discovery that his parent is a four-flusher and a fake—he attaches himself to Blackie, a public enemy, sinister symbol of the power Chuck means one day to possess. But a greater disillusionment, the discovery that gangster methods are cowardly, teaches Chuck the meaning of words like honor, courage, and success, and he goes back home to learn discipline.

Besides the star, Cooper, the cast of "Boy of the Streets" includes Kathleen Burke, Robert Emmett O'Connor, Marjorie Main, Guy Usher, and Matty Fain. Co-starring with Cooper is 14 year old Maureen O'Connor, Radio's baby star for 1937.

Other rock-growing ferns by the rusty chaff covering the spores and stem of the plant.

Other ferns to look for on rocks are the various lip ferns, cliffbrakes, rock-brakes and splenops. Most of these are not common and as a rule grow at their best in the southwestern part of the state. A few of them, however, have been found in Door county and, less abundantly, elsewhere.

W. C. Fields Stars in 'Big Broadcast of 1938'

Back in harness after a year's illness, W. C. Fields proves that he has lost no part of his almost magical ability to keep audiences in a constant state of hilarious laughter in Paramount's new girl-and-gag musical comedy, "The Big Broadcast of 1938," which will be shown at the Elite theater on Monday and Tuesday, Bargain days, with Martha Raye, Dorothy Lamour, Stanley Ross and Bob Hope heading the stellar cast featured in support of his antics.

Fields is cast as the shipping magnate who boards his own ship by mistake, thinking that it is his rival, and attempts to slow down the ship, which is trying for a new transatlantic speed record.

In the course of his side-splitting misadventures, Fields brings to the screen his famous pool and golf routines, which started him on the road to stardom back in the days when he was on the legitimate and vaudeville stage.

Child Hurt in Fatal Crash Is Recovering

Vincent Wagner, 4, who was seriously injured in the auto-truck crash that claimed the lives of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wagner, and a brother and sister near Twelve Corners Aug. 11, is on the way to recovery at St. Elizabeth hospital. He suffered two broken collar bones in the accident.

An inquest in the accident will be held at the 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Black Creek village hall by Dr. H. E. Ellsworth, county coroner. The four were killed when their car and a truck driven by Harold Klainer, Black Creek, collided at a town road intersection. Glarner had an injured arm and was released from a Green Bay hospital earlier this week.

'Dr. Clitterhouse' Now at Appleton

Edward G. Robinson Head-Cast of Picture Opening Today

Edward G. Robinson comes to the screen of the Appleton Theatre today, for a 4-day showing, in what he has described as the most fascinating role of his career—the truly extraordinary title character of "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse," a bizarre crime film with hilarious undertones of comedy based on the New York stage hit of the same name.

Long famous for his portrayal of ruthless criminals, Robinson has the great good fortune in this picture of being able to demonstrate the high order of his acting skill by enacting an enormously complex character—a Park Avenue doctor who spends his nights in the practice of medicine, his nights in the practice of crime.

He is, on the surface, a highly respected neurological surgeon who becomes so obsessed with a study of the physical and mental reactions of criminals at the times when they are committing their crimes that he determines to engage in criminal activities himself in order to observe his own reactions and those of the criminals he will be associated with.

Dr. Clitterhouse soon rises to the leadership of a band of robbers formerly led by Humphrey Bogart and for which Claire Trevor acts as "fence" and co-leader. Hardened criminals all, they don't know what to make of "the Professor," but good-humoredly indulge his whims, and allow him to test their reactions during the commission of their many crimes. Bogart, alone of the gang, is suspicious and his threat of exposure leads the Doctor to commit the ultimate crime of murder.

The murder leads to his unmasking, and he is arrested and put on trial for his life. Although his lawyer has presented a plea of insanity, Clitterhouse staunchly declares himself sane. This convinces the jury of his insanity, and he is acquitted in a court scene that is unrivaled in cinematic history.

The second feature of this program is "The Gladiator," starring Joe E. Brown and June Travis with a cast including Robert Kent and Man Mountain Dean.

This picture is Joe E. Brown's best to date.

The Dog Owner and His Dog

— BY ALLAN KERR

Entry blanks and premium lists for the Northwestern Wisconsin Kennel club's licensed dog show at Fond du Lac, Sunday, Sept. 25, may be obtained by addressing the writer in care of this paper. These should prove both interesting and educational, especially to those who may be showing dogs for the first time.

The official entry blank of the American Kennel Club, under whose license most of the better shows are held, contains, in addition to the who, what, where and when of the show, and the necessary space for the dog descriptions, many important chapters of the rules and regulations governing the conduct of such events.

For instance, all of the breeds recognized by the A.K.C. are listed under their various group heads. These number more than 100. Under a chapter headed, "Registration and Listing," will be found information regarding what qualifications are necessary for dogs to be shown. Included, is the following:

"If the owner of an apparently purebred dog shall be unable to supply all the information necessary for registration, and can and does furnish proof acceptable to the American Kennel Club that such dog is 'ineligible for registration' such dog may be listed with the American Kennel Club for the purpose of being shown or exhibited at dog shows and may be shown for life without being registered upon payment of a listing fee on each occasion upon which it is entered." A dog registered with the A.K.C. has the privilege of being shown for life, without any listing fee.

Lists Contain Programs Most dog show premium lists are rather interesting pamphlets. They contain the high-lights of the program, as well as the names of those who are in charge of the various assignments. The judges are named, with the breeds they will work with, and the officers and directors of the club sponsoring the show are listed. The committees show veterinarians, superintendent and show secretary, with their place of residence, are also shown. The sheet includes information as to show hours, deadline for getting entries in, amount of fee, where to send entries, and other necessary details. Some lists include dope on the various special classes, such as field trial, for dogs that have run in trials held by organized field trial clubs in the United States; and local class for dogs living within a certain distance of the show city.

Dozens of Prizes The bulk of the space in most premium lists is taken up by the dozens of cash prizes, often running into thousands of dollars, offered for the many class and group winners. Descriptions of cups and other trophies to be presented are given, as well as the long list of merchandise awards. At the show a complete catalog and program may be obtained. This includes every detail of the event, and a complete list of the dogs entered, their description, owners and handlers. It is a valuable handbook for dog owners, whether attending the dog show as an exhibitor or spectator.

The Northeastern Wisconsin Kennel club will show at Fond du Lac should provide a rare treat for the thousands of dog lovers in this section of the state. If you are interested, please write to this paper right now for a free premium list.

REWRITING THE WAGNER LAW

The melancholy days are coming, as they always do in the autumn. But they will be particularly sad and mournful to John L. Lewis this fall.

The announcement from the White House that there is need for "clarifying" the Wagner Act is the way the President expresses the need of vital change. It would not do to say we must alter the law. Instead the admission comes forth feebly and haltingly, and only because forced by the AFL and an oncoming election.

There are certain effective principles in respect to labor relations that must not be muddled by this clarifying process. The rewritten law must embody the clear cut and unclouded right of collective bargaining by labor's own chosen representatives and the right to strike against conditions of employment that do not yield to more peaceful treatment.

But there should be no endeavor to try to tack onto Labor financial responsibility for the wild personal actions of some incorrigible men who enter its ranks, and probably for the very purpose of disrupting them.

Every decent working man wants to live up to his agreement just as he expects the employer to do likewise. Safely may it be said that nine out of ten men are proud to maintain high and honorable personal records and attempt to pass on to their organizations the same worthy ideals.

Let the employers who are demanding financial responsibility of the unions consider the unhappy effect upon the American industrial structure if these unions were to be impoverished, and therefore destroyed for all effective purposes by an act whose purpose should be the reasonable protection of the great mass of men who are equally reasonable and trustworthy.

The Wagner Act should be amended to provide delays in either strikes or lockouts of such length of time as to reasonably assure calm action, careful investigation and the spread of reliable information to the public. Working conditions should not be terminated excepting by written and secret ballot of the workers.

It is not unlikely that Mr. Lewis will dig up dictionaries long since obsolete just to find words to satisfactorily belabor and bedevil such provisions because they would interfere with the authority of the bosses. But such amendments would make the men freer than they are today, paychecks steadier, homes happier, children better clothed, and the stream of our normal life gurgling more merrily on its way to greater events.

THE CASE OF MARYLAND

"The despot's heel is on thy shore, Maryland, my Maryland!
His torch is at thy temple door, Maryland, my Maryland!
Avenge the patriotic gore
That flecked the streets of Baltimore,
And be the battle queen of yore,
Maryland, my Maryland!"

From the bare record the President's opposition to Senator Tydings has ten times more support than his opposition to Senator George.

For Senator George gave about 95 per cent support for New Deal measures which is much more than Senator Tydings gave. The Roosevelt opposition to Senator George, since it cannot be based upon the record, must exist because of personal dislike or because Mr. George's cheers for the White House were not sufficiently effusive or when he genuflected at sight of the Master of Magic he did not bow his head with coming him, lay—or maybe he laughed.

And still Mr. Roosevelt has gotten himself into a hornet's nest in Maryland. He may be forced to discuss "my promise and my word" the solemn oath he gave the American people when he assured them he stood upon the party platform 100 per cent, a platform by the way upon which Mr. Tydings was also elected to office just six years ago.

Mr. Tydings contends, with every show of reason in sight, that when he voted against Mr. Roosevelt's pet measures he was in fact upholding the party platform and his word of honor to the people of Maryland who elected him.

It is a nice and delicate question. When the President breaks his word of honor and violates "my promise and my word," to use his own expression, must all the party members violate their words, too?

Mr. Tydings, it seems to us, occupies a pretty strong position. At least he lived up to his word which has been considered not dishonorable prior to the New Deal.

And his strong and consistent opposition to the President's attempt to take over the supreme court should not be held up against him because no party platform ever supported such a measure and the President emphatically declared in 1936 that no infringement of the people's rights would be attempted excepting through a constitutional amendment which can only be accomplished by the specific consent of the people themselves.

It is, as we said, a nice battle.

FINE INVESTIGATIONS BUT NOT THE RIGHT ONE

We are in the midst of two extensive federal investigations, one by the Dies committee aimed at discovering and acquainting the country with the truth in relation to Red and Fascist organizations, and the other bent upon obtaining and presenting the truth in relation to TVA.

These investigations were only forthcoming after prolonged effort on the part of many faithful men and without regard to party.

But investigations are not popular at Washington. An administration that detests an independent congress and despises an independent court fumes at the very thought that there is anyone big enough in the country to inquire into its record.

Investigations are not perfect. But they are immeasurably better than resting content with charges, some of which may be as raw as March winds and unfounded as a Munchausen tale.

But the really great investigation we need has to do with Harry Hopkins' department that has spent billions and given an account to no one.

If we are to judge the cistern of iniquity into which we may look when the lid is lifted by the bits of odor that force themselves occasionally out through the crevices then we will be face to face with a condition that will blind the sight.

Mention investigating the Hopkins handled funds and the Administration goes purple with rage. Its fury mounts so high and so swiftly it can hardly get out words.

But some day this investigation will come and then the public, long denied and long deluded, will probably learn that no period during the decadence of Rome, of Babylon or Alexandria ever witnessed such a misuse and corruption of the public funds in the interests of preserving men in power as has taken place in our own America.

MEXICO MUST COME TO TERMS

Mr. Hull has written Mexico the strongest and most emphatic protest against the mistreatment of the rights of American ranch owners that has come out of the State Department since the World war.

It is Mr. Hull's business to pick up the pieces. A good Secretary of State tries to mend the vase after his chief has carelessly dashed it upon the floor. The situation might be compared, too, to the elder member of the family who settles the bills for the wild oats cast about by the careless and heedless one.

For anyone will have difficulty in escaping the conclusion that Mr. Roosevelt's attitude toward Mexico in playing the part of the grand and pompous seignior was the inducing cause of the poor socialists below the Rio Grande losing their minds.

Now they are tailspinning in a wretched economic collapse, the Americans are deprived of their property, Mexico has turned into a brigand nation and our government has one more serious problem to handle, that, like a plague, may wait its germs afar into other lands.

It is not alone that Mexico has stolen property. It is that she sought to do so under the guise of friendship and with her mouth full of falsehoods. She would pay. She was honorable. Senor need wait but a little while. And since the money was sure why get excited?

For pure impudence no swaggering mestizo who burned some man's ranch house and stole his daughter could have laughed more derisively at the stricken one as he rode away into the dusk.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

HEAVENLY WASHDAY

Today the white clouds billow out...
I think Elvira stretched a line.
And, bustling happily about,
Rejoices that the day is fine.

Split sunbeams are her clothespins...
She fastens them carefully...
The sight of clean clouds blowing cheerfully
Fills her with housewifely delight.

All day the clouds hang in the breeze
Like linen soft and of true worth...
Elvira loved washdays like these,
When she was busy on this earth.

A SLOVAK LEADER

Father Andreas Hlinka, known to his countrymen in the United and at home as the apostle of Slovak independence, passes from the scene at a crucial moment in the history of his country, when the home rule movement he led for forty years has assumed a form and a character which threaten the existence of the Czech Republic. When Slovakia was a restive province in the Austrian Empire Father Hlinka fought for the rights of his people and was imprisoned by the Hungarian authorities. When the Slovaks became part of Czechoslovakia, and were disappointed in expectations of political and cultural autonomy based on the agreement signed by Czechs and Slovaks in Pittsburgh in 1918, he continued to fight for the fulfillment of that agreement. The Slovaks are Slavs like the Czechs. They have no great power behind them, and in their agitation against Czech predominance they had no thought of existence outside the republic. This is the great difference

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—Two a. m., Broadway and 51st: A portly fellow, pompous and important, emerged from a rumba rendezvous, paused, flicked away the remains of his cigar, and strolled down the street.

A vagrant darted to the gutter and retrieved the abandoned cheroot. Clutching it in dirty hands, he ran after the portly fellow, overtook him and tugged at his sleeve.

The portly citizen, annoyed, growled: "Go away, fellow. I have nothing for you." There are many mendicants on the streets at night.

"But, mister," the vagrant mumbled, protestingly, "I—" "Go away," repeated the portly citizen, "or I shall call an officer."

The vagrant reluctantly relaxed his hold on the other's coat sleeve, and turned slowly away. He murmured: "Well, I oughta get A for Effort, anyway."

He puffed a moment on the still-lit cigar butt, then tossed it away. But he didn't make the mistake the portly citizen had made. He hung onto the glittering, diamond-banded cigar-holder.

On Location: Chinatown has changed. Slowly its picturesqueness is ground in the maw of modernism. The horrors of hatched men, the vengeance of murderous thugs, the dens of opium smokers live only in the lurid brains of the pulp magazine hacks. There hasn't been a drop of yellow blood shed at the one-time "bloody corner" of Mott and Pell streets in years.

A majority of New York's Chinese still live somewhere along the twisting, narrow streets of that section of the lower East Side which begins at Chatham Square and embraces Mott, Pell, Doyer and Bayard streets. One misses, though, the orientalism that once was there. The Chinese are pretty thoroughly Americanized now.

Dignitaries are passe. Racial mannerisms are slowly disappearing—the shuffling gait, and the habit of keeping the hands folded in the sleeves, muffled. The women, seemingly slower to abandon centuries of customs, still favor the loose, kimono-like dresses, but they have not been slow to adopt the tricks of cosmetics, makeup and American hairdressing.

Chinatown shops and eating places do a lively tourist business, though most of the tourists are New Yorkers who drop down occasionally to gorge themselves on fried rice, eggs foo-yung, kumquats, almond cakes and huge pots of tea, or else to shop for novelties in the bazaars and shops.

Sightseeing buses still count Chinatown their best bargain, though business is blab compared with the days when headlines screamed of hatchet men who cleaved the skulls of enemy tongmen, or Chinese slipped noiselessly through dark doorways and disappeared into a labyrinthine underworld where the curling haze of burning opium formed clouds on which tired oriental souls rode for a few blissful hours into an Elysium born of sleep.

Dining there is inexpensive. The same dishes that every American city knows—chow mein, chop suey and the inevitable rice—are served, and there isn't much difference in it from the places uptown. For the epicure, though, the cost is much greater, and the opportunity for gastronomic adventure is almost unlimited. There are strange, delightful fruits and vegetables, and savory compounds that require hours over slow fires. Here an expert in dining can give his stomach new delights. At the end his check will total many dollars as many as if he had dined more swankily at one of the impeccably cuisined places in midtown.

The chefs who make such Chinatown adventures gastronomically memorable are famelike. There are no pompous, publicized Louis or Oscars or Raymonds. Their kitchens are clean, though they do not gleam with modernity, and the service is sometimes actually aggravating.

Dropping down last night, we wandered into one place where the bird's nest soup had been extravagantly recommended. I do not know what goes into bird's nest soup, but I suspect if you made a chicken soup with rice and had it rather thicker than usual, you would have approximately the same thing, albeit not so suspiciously titled.

The waiters were sitting at a table. Some were leisurely eating bowls of rice. Others were engrossed in Chinese newspapers. We sat for a good ten minutes without anyone paying us the slightest attention. When they were good and ready they acknowledged our presence, a bit grudgingly. I thought, as though we were impertinent to interrupt their peace.

The Bret Harte poem ran through my mind, as it always does when I meet Chinese; and I said to myself that the Chinese is no longer heathen, but he still is peculiar.

About 10,000 dentists attended the seventieth annual convention of the American Dental association at Minneapolis, Aug. 20 to 24, according to Appleton dentists recently returned. The Appleton delegation was composed of Dr. S. J. Kloehn, Dr. H. F. O'Brien, Dr. C. Persbacher, Dr. R. R. Lally, Dr. M. Goeres and Dr. E. J. Ladner.

Kenneth Chappel and Neil Klausner became the tennis champions of Neenah Friday when they defeated Fred Olson and Jimmy Shea in the double tournament.

Plans had been completed for the water carnival and Venetian night to be held at Fremont Sunday. Walter J. Kohler was to fly to Fremont to make a political speech.

Notice was served on Hoffman and Son that morning to discontinue work on the pumping station. It was discovered yesterday that building was out of plumb. One end was seven inches lower than the other.

David Ryan, George Shildon, James Wolcott, C. H. Warner and John Day returned the previous evening from Oshkosh where they attended the annual meeting of the Twenty-first infantry association. Eighty of the aged veterans were in attendance. The following officers were elected: A. W. Ballard, Omro, president; Murray McCallen, Neenah, first vice president; E. A. Eldridge, Menasha, second vice president; James Noble, Milwaukee, secretary-treasurer; W. R. Brown, Waupaca, chaplain.

between their movement and that of the Sudeten Germans.

The Slovaks are well aware that all their hopes of independence are bound up with the fate of the Czechs. So was Father Hlinka. He fought and died in the belief that Czechoslovakia would be strengthened if the Slovak element received a fuller measure of equality and self-government. His loyalty was unquestioned, least of all by his friend and fellow-Slovak, and in pre-war days his fellow-agitator, Premier Hodza. This spring the Czech premier and the Slovak leader held many conferences in the search for the agreement both desired. The affectionate message sent by Dr. Hodza to Father Hlinka as he lay dying—is a melancholy reminder that if the evolution of the nation were only permitted to take its natural course, this agreement, together with the solution of other internal differences would eventually be reached.—New York Times.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — Doubtless President Roosevelt did not intend to rattle sabres in assuring Canada that the United States would not sit idly by in event of an attack on the dominion, but the statement helps to explain the cool reception given by Germany, Japan and Italy to American peace pronouncements.

For several reasons many persons in these three nations, as well as many in America, have long looked upon the United States as a sort of British ally. Repeatedly this has been positively denied by the State Department but the denials have not changed these conditions.

Now comes the President's statement in the speech dedicating the international bridge between the U. S. and Canada by which he indicates that an attack on Canada would be, for all practical purposes, an attack on the United States. To a German, or Japanese, or Italian looking askance at British rearmament, it might easily have sounded as if the U. S. had promised to look out for one of Mother Britain's children in event of trouble.

Old Hat to U. S.

But to students of U. S. defense measures the statement about Canada carries no essential foreign significance. It has long been recognized that the U. S. defense line extends from Greenland southward at least as far as Brazil, and on the West Coast from Alaska southward to a contact with South America. That includes the whole Canadian coast line.

For a hundred years Canada and the United States have comforted themselves with the recollection that their faith and trust in each other has permitted 2,000 miles of boundary to exist without a single fortification. But the people mapping out the national defense program have looked with less sentimental regard on that long undefended line.

When army aviation specialists sought to give due recognition to that problem three years ago by proposing a series of air bases along the Canadian border, however, the sentimental attachment to that undefended border line was such that the idea was smothered under a storm of protest from both sides of the border.

Comforting to Britain

The average Canadian probably has not given this business of continental defense much consideration. But suppose he were told that the United States would not attempt to stop a foreign invader until its armies actually crossed Canada and threatened to march across the northern U. S. border. The problem then would become at once a real one to him.

As a matter of cold calculation, of course, this assurance of U. S. protection for Canada is an aid to Britain. It saves her the expense of supporting costly naval bases, which otherwise would be necessary both on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of Canada.

It's Odd But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

AP Science Editor

Bloomington, Ind. — Some tropical plants which never flower in temperate latitudes bloom all summer under a special treatment at Indiana university.

For about two weeks, when the plant is small, for two or three hours each day it is covered with a can. That is all. After that, with no further covering, the plant blooms and seeds as if it were home in the tropics.

The explanation: Days in the tropics are shorter than in temperate latitude summertime. The can shortens the visiting plant's day to the length of the tropics. This gives the same sort of start the plant would have at home.

New horizons for plant breeding are promised by work of this kind. Some varieties of tropical corn respond to the "canned" treatment. This means that the qualities of the tropical plant can be crossed with temperate zone corn.

Cans have been used at Indiana university because they are cheap and easy. Any other way of blanketing the daylight would do as well.

Dr. Paul Weatherwax, professor of botany, is making the can experiments. Toosinte, a cereal related to corn, was the first tropical plant to respond to this treatment. What range of tropical plants will bloom in this manner in the temperate latitudes Dr. Weatherwax does not know. He has enough examples to show that possibilities are wide.

Your Birthday

"VIRGO"

If August 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 to 11:45 a. m. from 3:45 to 5:45 p. m.; and from 7:45 to 9:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:45 to 9:45 a. m. from 5:45 to 7:45 p. m. and from 9:45 to 11:45 p. m.

Invitations extended this day should receive careful consideration before being accepted or declined. A question involving the sincerity back of professions of friendship is likely to provoke a quarrel, so be tactful in this respect. Suspicions may be easily aroused, particularly if conversations are carried on in a confidential manner. Control your facial expression, for it might have much to do with creating favorable and unfavorable impressions. Conditions may be conducive to making sounds to travel far and fast this day, with the result that shrill tones and boisterous laughter may cause irritation and ill-temper. Jumping to false conclusions will be a common fault. To say or do nothing that might require your offering any kind of an excuse this day is apt to be good judgement, for the chances are it will be difficult to get explanations or apologies accepted. Married and engaged couples, and those into whose hearts Cupid has kindled the tender passion, must be prepared this day to take good naturedly a lot of jesting at their expense.

If a woman and August 28 is your birthday, you are likely to thoroughly enjoy putting your wits against someone else's, especially in driving a bargain or in trying to gain your point in an argument. You ought to be almost immune to accidents, as you perhaps exercise caution in almost everything you do. You might not be much of a church-goer, but you have, more than likely, a deeply religious nature. Through educational work, or as an artist, author, business manager or buyer success may come to you early in life. A home, husband and children, in all likelihood, will make you contented and happy.

The child born on August 28, is usually very enterprising and ambitious, with an unlimited amount of energy. Children born on this date seldom have any difficulty in getting the results for which they earnestly strive.

August 28 is your natal day, courage apparently will be your mainstay, unbounded faith your inspiration to keep working, and love your urge to be ambitious. Politics, religion, engineering, art, music, journalism or selling are among the best activities in which you may be successful.

Personal Health Talks

Noted Physician and Author

IMMUNITY AGAINST DIPHTHERIA

In France there are 2,000 deaths annually from diphtheria and about 20,000 cases of the disease annually.

For years it has been obligatory for French soldiers to be immunized against diphtheria with toxoid, which is called anatoxin in France. Not long ago the lower house of the French legislature passed a bill extending such compulsory immunization (it is inaccurate to call it vaccination) to all children during the second or third year. Early in June of this year the French senate passed a similar bill, so that immunization against diphtheria is now compulsory in France. Parents or guardians are made responsible for having all children immunized. No child can be admitted to school without a certificate showing that this law has been complied with. On publication of the new law in early June notice was given that all children up to the age of 14 who had not been immunized must be immunized as soon as possible.

The immunizations with toxoid will be carried out entirely at government expense. The French government regards this as an economical policy, believing that the outlay will be amply compensated by a marked reduction in the present sick rate of 20,000 cases a year and the death rate of 2,000 cases a year from diphtheria.

They do some things better abroad.

It never occurs to the United States government or to the Dominion government or to the various State or Provincial governments to assume all the cost of producing vaccine, antitoxin, Pasteur virus, toxin-antitoxin or toxoid and all the cost of protecting citizens with these agents. In this country we prefer to go at it in some complicated, furtive, indirect, way, which will give petty politicians opportunity for a bit of legitimate graft and a chance to vent their spite on a few citizens who happen to resent assault or perhaps people who do not believe in such practices. We put one law or ordinance on the books which makes it obligatory to send children to school, and another which enables the petty boss of the district to exclude children from school unless they are vaccinated. This is a favorite pastime of crooked politicians in America—medical and lay.

No intelligent medical man can get around the fundamental fact that, if vaccination affords the protection we believe it does, no one who is vaccinated has anything to fear from one who is not vaccinated, in any circumstances. Therefore people who believe in vaccination have no ground for imposing their belief upon people who for any reason do not wish to be vaccinated.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Rabies in Man

Our hygiene class discussed subject of rabies and Pasteur treatment. Instructor was surprised when I said modern medical opinion doubted even existence of rabies in man. Can you give me references to scientific evidence, experimental or clinical data bearing on the question? (B.J.P.)

Answer—Until some one discovers a germ or other cause of rabies there can be no scientific proof of such a disease. I can only give my earnest conviction that rabies does not occur in man. I believe the cause of death in some cases the health department oracle designates as rabies is actually tetanus (lock jaw) which gains entrance through the bite or scratch just as that or any other infection may gain entrance through any wound, scratch or puncture. But my opinion is shared by few physicians, I fear: you will find the great majority of physicians still believe in human rabies, even in so-called Pasteur treatment (homeopathic doses of the spinal cord of an animal presumably dead of rabies).

Fruit Acids

What acids in strawberries, peaches, apricots, plus, cherries, pineapples, prunes, nectarines, cranberries? (M.H.)

Answer—Citric, tartaric, malic acids—all readily oxidized in the body, into carbon dioxide and alkaline bases. Cranberries, plums and prunes contain some benzoic acid, not oxidized.

German Cigaret Packs

Include Military Cards

Berlin.—(AP) Cards inserted in packs of cigarettes are catching the fancy of German youths now.

At first these cards were of such innocent subjects as flags, automobiles, and sports; but now the favorite pictures are of a military character.

These cards started with warships and war planes of all nations. German army uniforms and later centered on military action itself. One series of these cards pictures the World War from beginning to end. Captions on the back of the cards describe the pictures.

With the scene shifting from the front in France to Russia, from the Italian front to the Balkans and to Palestine, the series touches off vaguely on all phases of the war. The part played by the Germans is glorified, and the grim aspects of the war are not shown. Only a small number of pictures give a hint of the realities of modern war. All gory features appear to be taboo.

Broadcasters Baffled

By Bedtime in Britain

London.—(AP) The British Broadcasting Corporation, semi-government radio monopoly, would like to have people make up their minds about going to bed.

The BBC broadcast late news at 9 p. m. during the winter, but when summer came, with sunset around 10:30 o'clock, the news was changed to 10 p. m.

The protest was instant, and George Bernard Shaw led the attack on the new "late hour." So the BBC changed to 9:40 p. m. with a promise to get back to 9 o'clock this winter.

Settle 172-Year Old

Argument Over Name

New Castle, Ind. —(AP) Uncle Sam has settled a 177-year-old argument by ordering this Indiana city's name split into two words.

The Post Office department at Washington, D. C., revived the controversy recently by pointing out that some confusion had arisen because the name was spelled as both "Newcastle" and "New Castle."

The local postmaster dug up the records and found the earliest record gave the name as two words.

Text Work Is Only Part of Teaching, Van Straten Says

Instructor Must Consider Habits, Character And Attitudes

Habits, character and attitudes are part of the teaching work of a good instructor, and while they are not found in the textbooks or school curriculum, they should be correlated with the studies such as language, work, reading and civics.

This was the statement made by Henry J. Van Straten, county superintendent of schools, in a talk yesterday at the annual institute of Outagamie county rural and state graded school teachers. The superintendent pointed out that the teacher's attitude and personality plays an important part in the molding of the pupil's character and his forming of habits and attitudes.

"Competition is sometimes stressed too much," Van Straten said. "The student should be encouraged to contribute to the group welfare which should make for more satisfying activity, rather than to 'beat' someone else. The direction in which a person is going is of much more importance than the place he has in the procession. Education is an attitude rather than an attainment."

The superintendent also discussed the teachers' retirement law. He commended the teachers on their attendance at the institute.

Purposeful Writing

Writing is a tool subject, K. F. Powers, Chicago, said in his address to the teachers. He said pupils should not write to imitate set models but to convey ideas. Writing periods should not be practice periods, but one of purposeful writing, he stated.

John McCormick, Freedom High school faculty member, spoke on education and life in the Philippine Islands. Should the United States release all control of the islands, influence of the Japanese would creep in more and more, he said.

English is taught in the schools along with the native language, McCormick said, and it's in general is unhurried as it's in general in the United States.

A. D. Phillips, Madison, spoke on arithmetic and supplementary materials at the morning session. Miss Nellie McDermott, supervising teacher, outlined the school testing program and reading procedures.

Miss Marie Klein, nurse, and Miss Thelma Burke, assistant, discussed the health program in the schools.

George Stuart, Milwaukee, who will be a freshman at Lawrence college this year, has been named boys' physical education director at the Appleton Y. M. C. A., according to Homer Gebhardt, secretary.

Stuart, who will replace Donald Wideman, Milwaukee, who had the job last year, will begin work with the opening of the fall schedule for boys, Sept. 6. He is a graduate of Bay View High school, Milwaukee, and was playground director at the Fernwood and Trowbridge playgrounds in that city. While in school he was a member of the gym team, football squad and played basketball and hockey and was a member of the Demolay swimming team.

Old Age Insurance Payments Increase

Green Bay Field Office Certifies 22 Claims In July

Money payments now due under the old age insurance plan continue to increase in region No. 6, which includes Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana, according to Les J. Myers, manager of the Social Security board field office at Green Bay.

"We have just been advised by H. L. McCarthy regional director at Chicago, that the average regional payment in his territory amounted to $57.24 in July. These were benefits paid in the region during that month, as compared with $52.56, the average for June," Myers said.

"Our own field office has been notified that 22 claims for such benefits, filed here, were certified for payment in July. The total of these certifications was $1,673.93. Lump-sum benefits now may be claimed by workers who reach age 65 after having held jobs covered by old age insurance. Benefits also are payable to heirs of workers who have died after having been thus employed," Myers added.

The Green Bay field office serves Brown, Door, Kewaunee, Marinette, Oconto, Outagamie, Waupaca and Shawano counties, filing claims for payments of this type for all residents of this area.

300 Kimberly Children at Final Playground Event

Kimberly — Over 300 children attended the closing picnic and program of the playground at Sunset Point Friday afternoon. Contests and games were conducted.

Racing contests were won by Bobby Fleweger, first, P. Van Eperen, second and L. Gaffney, third, in the smaller boys group. For the older boys, Alphonse Kneepkins was awarded first, Lawrence Mauthe, second and Henry Van Eperen, third.

Yvonne Behrendt took first place in the older girls racing with J. Vanden Heuvel winning second. The playground which has been supervised the last 10 weeks by Ray Hamann, Shirley Melcher, and Bernadine Thein, has attracted hundreds of children each day in the past playing various games.

The swimming pool.

For baseball competition the boys have been divided into several leagues which included the midlets, Juniors, and older boys league. The swimming pool, too, has been the center of activities during the warm weather and the wading pool for the tiny tots has also been a welcome spot.

The Kimberly playground is governed by a playground commission appointed by the village board. The commission appoints a director for the girls and one for the boys each year for a 10 weeks session.

The tennis court is also a busy spot during the playground season. The construction of the double courts meet standard specifications and the most modern materials were used to insure long service.

Two Youths Complete 700-Mile Canoe Trip Down the Mississippi

St. Louis — (P) — Two tanned youths paddled their canoe up to the riverfront here yesterday, completing a 700-mile trip down the Mississippi river from Minneapolis in 18 days.

The two, Richard Pfuhl, 19, and Martin Gallagher, 22, of St. Louis, said the new government navigation dams wrecked their plans of taking it easy.

"Most people think all you have to do is float," they commented, "but they're wrong. We passed 27 dams on the trip, and they have practically stopped the current above Dubuque, Iowa."

ROBBED OF $50

Richland Center, Wis. — (P) — Raymond Smith, 20, operator of a filling station on Highway 14, reported to Richland county authorities he was robbed of $50 and forced to accompany two armed youths in their car early today. Smith was released unharmed about three miles from the station.

First Baptist church, Green Bay. The body will be taken to Wausau for burial.

FRANCIS SHAW

Funeral services for Francis, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shaw, 503 Wyman street, New London, were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the child's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Jennings, New London, with the Rev. A. Baier, assistant pastor of the Most Precious Blood church, in charge. Burial was in the parish cemetery. The baby was born Wednesday and died at 4:45 this morning.

Child, 5, Injured in Accident With Auto

Clarence Rehfeldt, son of Mrs. Eleanor Rehfeldt, 201 S. State street, suffered a bruised hip and a fractured finger on his left hand when he was in an accident involving a car driven by A. J. Sauter, 425 E. Wilson street, about 10:40 this morning on S. Memorial drive. The child was crossing from the east to the west side of the street, and Sauter was going south when the accident occurred.

Lions Club to Inspect City Treatment Plant

The Appleton Lions club will inspect the Appleton treatment plant following their noon lunch at the Conway hotel Monday. Clarence O. Baetz, superintendent of the plant, spoke before the club last week.

Fair Weekend Is Weather Forecast

Temperatures Continue to Rise in Appleton and Vicinity

Summer with its soaring temperatures came back to Appleton and vicinity although a cool breeze provided the fall tang and helped to keep people from thinking about the weather.

Temperatures continued to rise slightly and the thermometer atop the Appleton Post-Crescent building registered 88 degrees at noon today, about 9 degrees higher than yesterday.

Generally fair tonight and Sunday is the weatherman's prediction for the weekend, according to the Milwaukee weather bureau. For the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning, the highest mark was 77 degrees and the lowest, 57 degrees, according to charts at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant.

The hottest city in the nation yesterday was Phoenix, Ariz., with a temperature of 102 degrees while the coldest was at Yellowstone where a temperature of 48 degrees was reported.

Transient Merchants Each Fined $25, Costs

Three men were each fined $25 and costs with an alternative of 30 days in the county detention camp by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court yesterday afternoon after they pleaded guilty of doing business as transient merchants in the city without a license.

The men are Alex Dobija, 24, Marinette; Ernest Lipchultz, 23, Milwaukee; and Ernest Christensen, 30, LaFayette, Ind. Christensen had not paid his fine up to this morning. The men were arrested by city police yesterday.

Bankers Map Plans for Conclave in Appleton

The congressman attended a dinner meeting at Gillett last night of the Door county Historical society and the Ridges Sanctuary and Peninsula Arts association.

HEAR 5 CASES

Five mortgage cases were studied by the county mediation board at its weekly meeting this morning at the courthouse.

Sales Mean Jobs

Sixteen Children Killed in Traffic Accidents in July

Wisconsin Chalks Up 8th Straight Month With Fewer Fatalities

Traffic accidents cost the lives of 16 Wisconsin children during the last month, according to the state highway commission. July's total was 64 fatalities, compared with 66 for July of 1937. This narrow reduction enabled Wisconsin to chalk up its eighth straight month with fewer traffic deaths.

State highway commission records show that Outagamie county had one fatality in July of this year, compared with none in July of last year.

Traffic violations caused 26 of the fatal accidents in July of this year. Of the 64 persons killed, 16 were walking on streets or highways, while 18 persons died in crashes involving only one vehicle, and 15 in smashups between two or more vehicles. Railway grade crossing accidents took three lives.

Passing on hills and curves loomed high as a July hazard, with 15 fatal crashes occurring because some drivers didn't take proper precaution on hills and curves. The long, straight road continued to claim the most victims, however, with 22 fatal accidents taking place there.

The number of serious accidents in Wisconsin has increased slightly this year, with 5,474 so far in 1938, compared with 5,322 in the first seven months of 1937. July brought 999 serious accidents this year, the first month to approach the 1,000-accident mark since January.

Shawano and Waupaca counties each had 13 serious accidents in July, while Winnebago had 28 and Brown 36, July records of the commission show.

Georgie, Appleton's Talking Parrot, Dies

Georgie, Appleton's famous talking parrot, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith, 512 N. Appleton street, died Thursday. The parrot had a vocabulary of 100 words and could form more than 50 distinct phrases. He appeared seven times on radio programs and made several stage appearances. Georgie had been in 11 states and attended the World's Fair. He was 26 years old.

'Y' Bowling Alleys to Be Opened on Sept. 12

The bowling alleys at the Appleton Y. M. C. A. will be opened for business Monday, Sept. 12. Homer Gebhardt, secretary, said this morning. The alleys have been completely resurfaced and refinished. New safety ball returns and new ball approaches have been installed and a number of new balls have been purchased. Gebhardt said. Bowlers who wish to join teams may contact William Elias or Harold Council.

Fined for Speeding And Jumping Arterial

George Moritz, Jr., 20, 1406 W. Prospect avenue, pleaded guilty of speeding and of failure to stop at an arterial when he appeared before Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court this morning. The motorist was fined $10 and costs on the first count and $1 and costs on the second. Moritz was arrested last night at Oneida and Seymour streets by city police.

Coolidge Victorious In Vote, Was Unopposed

New Haven, Conn. — (P) — John Coolidge, son of the late President Calvin Coolidge, made his bow in politics today by winning election to the Republican state convention next month as a delegate-at-large.

He was unopposed.

Coolidge has kept out of the public eye most of the time since he came to Orange, Conn., in 1928. Got a job with the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad and married a daughter of John H. Trumbull, then Republican governor of the state. They have one daughter, Cynthia.

It Is Said--

That the channel off the Oneida street bridge is near Superior Knitting mill is a favorite swimming hole to a number of Appleton youths. Each warm day a dozen or so may be seen diving from the bridge railing and channel wall. It is no place for bathers because of the water's depth.

Road Committee May Seek PWA Grant to Relocate Highway 125

Relocation of Highway 125 to give the city a southern connecting link to Super highway 41 with the aid of a PWA grant will be considered by the county highway committee Monday at the courthouse.

The committee has been advised that such a grant may be obtained and state highway department officials have offered to discuss the matter with the committee. The committee members may go to Madison to meet with state officials Tuesday.

The state highway department had offered the county aid of about $35,000 for rebuilding the highway, but the proposal was discarded because of the cost of the project. The state refused to give aid in repairing the present highway.

The project, if a PWA grant is secured must be given county board approval before it can be started.

Farmer Sentenced To Die for Murder

Baxter Parnell Convicted Of Ice-Pick Stabbing Of Sister-in-Law

Concord, N. C. — (P) — Baxter Parnell, 32-year-old farmer, sentenced to die Oct. 28 for the ice-pick stabbing of his 19-year-old sister-in-law, pinned here today for freedom upon an appeal to the state supreme court for a new trial.

A superior court jury convicted Parnell last night of first-degree murder after hearing him testify he had chucked a root given him by a Negro woman he called a "witch" doctor and remembered nothing about the killing.

Parnell, who said he quit school in the first grade after attending "seven or eight years," told the jury he didn't intend to kill Jamie Pink, his sister-in-law, but that chawing roots obtained from the Negro herb dispenser made his mind "come and go."

Jenny Morris, a gaunt, wrinkled, little woman clad in a pink flowered dress, black hat and veil, said Parnell came to her home sometime before the killing and told her he was "down and out." She said she gave him a "little bit of rattlesnake" and told him to chaw it and spit it out.

About the ingredients of her concoctions the Negro was reticent.

SUFFERS STROKE

McAdoo Opponent Supports Script Pension Proposal

California Candidate for Senate Seat Is Considered Stiff Opposition

San Francisco — (P) — A principal opponent of Senator William G. McAdoo, administration candidate in next Tuesday's primary, rallied today to the support of a script pension plan for California jobs, which President Roosevelt described as a short-cut to Utopia.

Sheridan Downey, generally regarded as one of the strongest contenders for the Democratic nomination in a 4-way race, said the president's ideas on the pension movement, under which all California unemployed over 50 would be given $30 in scrip weekly, said the chief executive was misinformed in his opposition.

Senator McAdoo termed the "330 every Thursday" plan financially unsound and the federal government must be the "backbone" of any successful old age pension plan. The proposed pension would be financed by a 2 per cent weekly stamp tax upon the scrip, which would be legal tender for taxes, but which merchants would not have to accept as money.

Candidate Downey said he hoped the pension plan "may be a short cut to Utopia."

"As to the president's statement that the stamps would be a tax on all the people, I believe that to be inaccurate," Downey declared. "The stamps would be necessitated only when the warrants themselves were used in the development of new business."

Morgan Withdraws His Criticism of Attorney

Knoxville — (P) — Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, deposed chairman of TVA, resumed his testimony before the congressional investigating committee today with a statement withdrawing his criticisms of Evans Dunn, TVA attorney, for his handling of the Berry marble lease condemnation proceedings.

He said "I had been told flatly that Mr. Dunn was unwilling to press the investigation of bad faith (in the marble claims)," but added "it is now apparent that at the trial he did present the bad faith aspects of the case ably."

He said the committee's witnesses had shown that he had been misinformed as to all aspects of Mr. Dunn's efforts in the case.

"I have been impressed by Mr. Dunn's conduct here," he said. "I ask the committee to strike from the record any criticism I have made of him."

War Department to Add No New Artillery Posts

Washington — (P) — Officials said today the war department contemplated establishing no additional permanent field artillery posts.

Commenting on a suggestion from Senator Duffy (D-Wis.) that a permanent artillery post be established at Camp McCoy, Sparta, Wis., officials said the department had a much greater need for training camps in that area than it did for permanent posts.

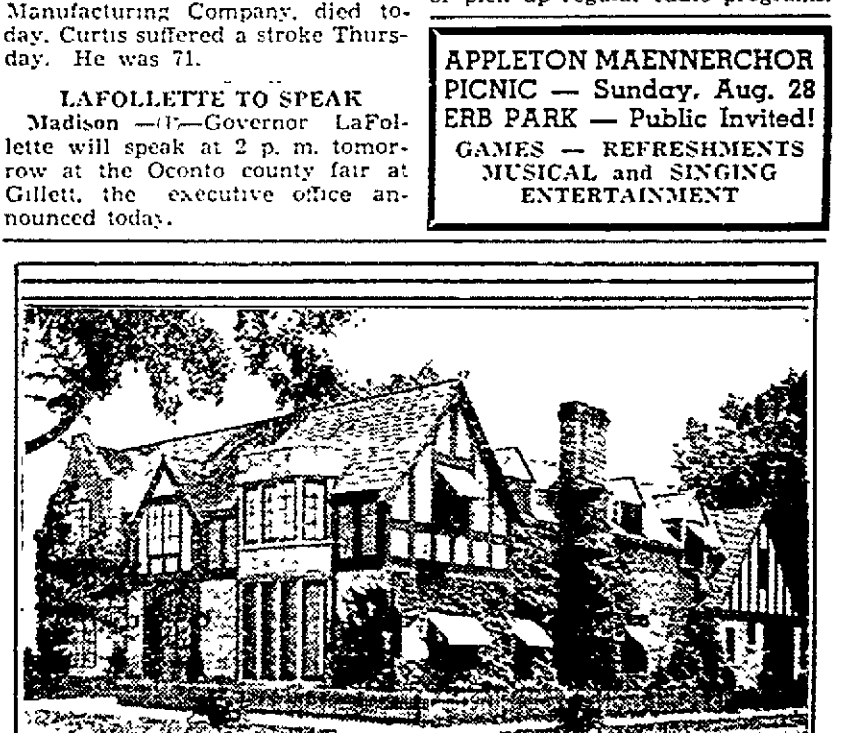

Camp McCoy, used for summer training principally by the national guard, was described by one official as ideally situated for the purpose and equipped with adequate rifle ranges for target practice.

Kosloski to Hurl For Falcon Squad In Title Battle

Crack Pitcher Will Work Last Five Innings Against Neenah

Neenah—It probably will be "Twin City baseball fans" last opportunity to see young George Kosloski, sensational pitcher for the Neenah Falcons, in action in these parts for some time when the Falcons, Fox Valley league champions, and the Neenah Merchants clash for the Twin City title at Washington park diamond at 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

Likelihood of Kosloski's being enticed to sign with latter company when the Neenah pitcher hurls for the Falcons in the state baseball tournament at Milwaukee Sept. 4, is considered great. At least, the young pitcher has made baseball fans in these parts sit up and take notice this season as he hurled the Falcons to the championship, and it has been reported that scouts have come here to watch the flinger work, among them Red Smith, a Milwaukee Brewer scout.

Kosloski will not hurl the entire distance for the Falcons tomorrow morning, however. Frank Klobbe, Neenah hurler, who also will pitch for the Falcons in the state tournament, will be assigned to mound duty for the first four innings with Kosloski twirling the last five frames.

Menning for Neenah

Manager Bill Handler of the Merchants will assign Russ Menning to the starting pitching assignment with Tom Christofferson receiving.

Another feature of the Sunday tilt will be motion pictures taken of the two teams in action by a cameraman who is "shooting" local events for the Neenah Lions club's movie production. Shots of the game will be included in the benefit show which will be staged by the service club in the S. A. Cook Armory Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 6 and 7.

Bill Handler will cover first for the Merchants, Kenneth Handler, 26, Edward Gulickson, cf, Harry Fahrnkug 3b, Louis Gamme, ss, Howard Cheslock lf, and Gilbert Haase of.

Herb Kosloski will complete the Falcons' brother battery, doing the receiving and batting in the cleanup spot. The Falcon infield will have F. Kolakowski at first; E. Paulowski at second; Badger Nadolny at shortstop; S. Paulowski at third. The outfield will have R. Sheleski in right field, F. Dombrowski in center and Syl Omarschinski in left.

Warden Releases 16 Black Raccoons

Stock Winnebago County For Future 'Coon Hunting

Neenah—Sixteen black raccoons were liberated in pairs in various parts of Winnebago county Friday, according to Warden Albert P. Dunham. The raccoons were secured from the state game farm at Fennell.

Dunham estimated that the county now has a population of about 35 black raccoons, including the 16 released yesterday and the eight released last year together with their "families" that have been born in a year's time.

The purpose of stocking Winnebago county with black raccoon, according to the warden, is to give residents an opportunity for "coon hunting" in this area in a few years. Black raccoons have been selected because their fur is more valuable than the gray raccoons. At present, however, "coon hunting" is illegal. If and when raccoons become numerous here, hunting will be possible only when existing regulations are changed.

There are only a few places in Winnebago county which are desirable for "coon haunts."

Burglars Use Key to Raid Neenah Residence

Three New Issues of Commemorative Stamps are Available at Post Office

Menasha—Three new issues of commemorative stamps are available at the Menasha post office for collectors, according to Joseph R. Coyle, postmaster. They include the Delaware commemorative, the sesquicentennial of the Northwest territory and the New Hampshire special stamp.

The Delaware stamp honors the arrival of the first Swedish and Finnish colonists in America at the present site of Wilmington, Del., in 1638. It is patterned after a painting by Stanley Arthur, Wilmington artist, and shows Peter Minuet and a group of colonists approaching the Indians to negotiate for the purchase of the Delaware river valley land. One of the colonists' vessels, Kalma Nyckel, is shown in the background. The stamp is a 3-cent square issue and has the words "Landing of the Swedes and Finns."

3-Cent Purple

The Northwest territory sesquicentennial stamp also is a 3-cent purple but is in the regular shape. It has the dates 1788-1938 and a portrait of the pioneer monument which was unveiled at Marietta, Ohio. The monument was designed by Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, and shows three persons grouped, symbolizing the nation moving westward. The stamp was issued because the federal Northwest territory act went into effect in 1788.

The third of the special stamps was issued in honor of New Hampshire because that state was the ninth and deciding one to ratify the Constitution of the United States on June 21, 1778. It is an oblong 3-cent purple and has the words "The States Ratify the Constitution 1788" in one corner and "United States Postage 1938" in the other. The design shows two horsemen, one galloping away and the other mounting, to carry the news of the ratification. The background shows a colonial courthouse.

In addition some of the 3-cent stamps in the new presidential series have been received. They show a bust of Thomas Jefferson and the dates he served as president, 1801-1809. The stamp is to be the regular 3-cent issued hereafter.

Complete Plans For Neenah Mill Safety Program

Lakeview Employees to Stage First Annual Safety Event

Neenah—Plans have been completed for the first annual safety day exhibition and program sponsored by employees of the Lakeview mill of the Kimberly-Clark corporation to be held in conjunction with the Lakeview Recreation association annual picnic and fire square contest all day Sunday at the Lakeview mill park, according to C. C. Smith of the personnel department, in charge of the program.

Besides the fire square contest, there will be a softball game, band concert under the direction of Lester Mais, women's and children's contests, safety murals and posters on display in exhibition booths and a safety motion picture booth.

The safety program will start at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and will include safety acts and plays, talks on safety, safety song contest, musical program, presentation of gold pins to employees with 25 years of continuous safety service by Ernest Mahler and presentation of prizes to winners of the safety contest by F. J. Sensenbrenner.

Dance in Evening

Picnic lunches will be served at noon and in the evening, and a dance will follow the latter lunch in the park pavilion. The picnic will start at 8 o'clock in the morning.

A large circus tent has been erected in the park in which a stage has been built. The safety program will take place in the tent. The musical program will consist of the following acts: Paul Waite, vocal solo accompanied by the band; George Klock, entertainment, five minutes of fun; Jim and George, sons of Joseph Park, musical; Kathleen Atkins, tap dance; Edward Rightor, solo guitar accompaniment; Carol Jean Booth, musical; and Charles Pott and his hill-billy band.

FEET SORE?

For hot, sore, tender, itchy, sweaty feet and ATHLETE'S FOOT TRY R46

Falcon Benedicts, Bachelors Ready For Annual Battle

Temporary Bleachers are Erected for Game at Menasha Ball Park

Menasha—The single men and married men of the Polish Falcon Athletic association will tangle in their annual baseball game Sunday afternoon at the Menasha baseball park. It will be the first game of baseball played on the field since the park was sodded.

Although the new stadium will not be complete, temporary bleachers have been erected at the field to seat the spectators. The single men were out in full strength Thursday night for their final practice session and are ready to repeat as champions.

The umpires will be Buck Zelinski, Paul Winarski and Stanley Gracyalny. Gracyalny will be at third base and will have charge of the refreshments at the hot corner. To preserve harmony a fourth umpire, reputed to be neutral, has been added to the staff. He will be Durne Nadeau.

The roster of the champions will boast Al Casey, W. Zelinski and R. Tietz to do the hurling and Kolakowski, Michalkiewicz and Joe Omar to do the receiving.

The infield will have such stars as Cy Sheleski, Eddie Zelinski, John Magalski, Nadojny, Buzanowski, Dombrowski, Joe Magalski, Syl Tomczak and Bill Akstulewicz. In the outfield there will be Carl Akstulewicz, Syl Omachinski, four Pawlowski, several Michalkiewicz brothers and a host of others.

Clean Speech Is Aim

Of Campaign in Spain

Burgos, Spain.—(U)—Minister of Interior Serrano Suñer has directed provincial governors in Nationalist Spain to wage campaigns against blasphemy and slander. The Nationalist press acclaimed the order, which authorized civil governors to invoke the full measure of the law against offenders. One newspaper commented: "No country displays this ugly vice as much as Spain. Our language, the most beautiful and rich in the world, is spoken by many who bespatter it with filthy interjection, taking in vain the name of God and the Saints."

Names of persons fined for blasphemy and slander are published in the newspapers.

SKUNK WINS

Spokane, Wash.—(U)—Workmen at the city pumping plant found a "striped kitty" in a well, decided to execute it with automobile exhaust fumes.

When the skunk was deemed to have received a fatal dose, Henry M. Emrick climbed down for an inquest.

Emrick took a couple of whiffs, passed out.

An inhalator squad worked 30 minutes to revive him.

WORTH SECOND LOOK

Lions Benefit Movie Will Add to Club's Milk Fund

Neenah—The proceeds from the Neenah Lions club's benefit movie which will be shown at S. A. Cook Armory Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons and evenings, Sept. 6 and 7, will be used for the club's milk fund for underprivileged children.

The movies will consist entirely of local pictures. Friday afternoon the cameraman took pictures of city officials, a trial run of the fire department, policemen, and general shots of the town and people.

He will have a busy day Sunday, for in morning he will take pictures of congregations leaving church services and the Neenah-Menasha baseball game at Washington park. In the afternoon, he will take pictures at the Lakeview milk picnic and safety day program at the Lakeview park. At 10 o'clock Monday morning, St. Thomas church boy scout troop will have its picture taken.

Hennig Is Chairman

The Lions are conducting an advance ticket sale for the benefit movie. Advance tickets will sell at 25 cents each, while at the door they will cost 35 cents. Children's tickets will amount to 15 cents. There will be two matinees for the children.

The Lions club slogan for the home movie production is "See yourself in the movies." A. A. Hennig is chairman of the committee in charge of the production, and he is assisted by Roy Babcock, Arthur Kessler, Verne Snyder, George Pyott and C. M. Jensen.

Killed in Auto Crash

Jordan, Minn.—(U)—A. L. Haack, 66, of Lincoln, Neb., chief of the dairy division in the Nebraska department of agriculture, was injured fatally about midnight last night when an automobile in which he was riding with his son went over a 35 foot embankment south of here.

The son, David, who was riding his father to their summer home at La Pointe, Wis., suffered a gash in the head, but his condition was not serious. Both were taken to a New Prague hospital, where the father died several hours after the accident.

Scientists in food research have a new term for toughness or tenderness: it is "chewing resistance."

La Crosse, Wis.—(U)—Dick Lorenzen, 18, Waterloo, Iowa, sea scout who fell from a bluff near Victory, Wis., Wednesday suffering a broken back and other injuries, died last night in a local hospital.

The sea scouts, on a Mississippi river cruise, had stopped at Victory for a bluff hike when the accident occurred.

Next Congress to Make Changes in Wagner Labor Act

Won't Weaken Collective Bargaining. Lawrence States

Washington—Changes in the Wagner Labor act are coming at the next session of congress, but they will not be changes which will weaken collective bargaining.

Employer groups have, in the last few days, derived much encouragement from the announcement that President Roosevelt and William Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, have agreed that some amendments to the Wagner act should be made.

Where the employers will meet a surprise, however, is when they find out that Mr. Green is really interested only in amendments which interfere with the opportunities of the A. F. of L. for further membership drives and that none of the labor organizations will support the kind of amendments, for instance, just proposed by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Some of the proposals made by the chamber, such as the grant to an employer of the right to petition the labor board for certification of the proper bargaining agency when there is a dispute between two rival units, will doubtless be adopted, but any attempt to revive the old "coercion-from-any-source" idea taboo, which has been the chief bone of contention from employers' associations, will find the A. F. of L. and the CIO indifferent, if not absolutely opposed.

Right to Strike

On paper it seems logical, of course, for employers as well as employees to be prohibited from using coercion or intimidation to gain their ends. But the right to strike is a fundamental labor philosophy, and along with it goes the right to make membership drives without interference from employers. If employees are coerced or intimidated, they now have a right under state laws to enjoin the intimidators and even to sue them for damages, but it is significant that, throughout the whole three years of Wagner act operation, instances of resort to state laws by employees as a protection against coercion or violence from fellow employees have been rare, if indeed, they have ever been filed anywhere.

GENERAL WEATHER

Showers and thunderstorms have occurred since yesterday morning over sections of the central Mississippi valley and central plains states, but generally over nearly all sections of the country.

Continued cool is general this morning over the upper Lakes and upper Mississippi valley, northern plains states and northern Rocky mountains, but mild temperatures prevail over the southern and eastern portions of the country.

Fair weather with rather cool temperature is expected in this section during the next 24 hours.

Urges Pay-as-You-Go Basis for Wisconsin

Fox Lake, Wis.—(U)—James G. Peterson of Medford, candidate for the republican nomination for governor, declared in an address here last night that state expenditures ought to be on a pay-as-you-go basis.

"There has been too much diversion of state money from one fund to another," Peterson said. "The highway fund in particular has been raided and the money used for other than those for which it was intended. Money collected for specific projects should be used only for those projects."

At the end of every fiscal year, he continued, "there should be an audit of the state's books, and the results of the audit should be published."

The question for employers' organizations to decide, therefore, is whether they want to concede the principle of federal police power over coercion and violence in labor disputes and ask for its extension to cover employees, or whether they want to insist that the Wagner act be amended so that coercion is defined, even with respect to employers, as "economic coercion" only rather than physical violence. This latter alternative would leave it to state laws to protect both employer and employee in the event that physical coercion or intimidation of a physical character is involved.

Such a plan certainly would put both sides on equal terms. If the distinction between physical and economic coercion is made, then employers would still be restrained from using their economic power, such as hiring non-union men and rejecting or dismissing employees for union activities. Likewise, employers would continue to be restrained from interfering directly or indirectly in processes by which workmen chose their bargaining representatives or agents.

What mostly is needed by way of amendment to existing law is a penalty for employers or their organizations which file miscellaneous charges with the labor board, thus taking up the time of the board and inflicting economic loss on the employers through the bringing of charges requiring litigation when such charges are themselves of no real point in connection with recognition of bona fide unions.

Perhaps more alertness on the part of the board in administering the existing act would take care of annoying incidents of this type, which cause labor disputes to become bitter and prevent conciliatory processes from being applied.

What the A. F. of L. wants primarily, of course, is a limitation on the power of the labor board to designate the "appropriate unit" for collective bargaining. This goes to the heart of the graft versus industry union controversy. Once this power is taken from the board, however, the question of what is an appropriate unit is left to the field of labor warfare, with strikes as the only weapon apparently available for its settlement.

Bargaining Unit

The A. F. of L. will doubtless be urged to make clear what it will substitute for the all-important question of what constitutes a bargaining unit. Is it the craft alone, or, in some mass industries, may it be the employees of a plant, or shall it be broad enough to cover all employees of a company regardless of where the plants are located? These are pertinent questions, certain to be raised when amendments are up for consideration.

In the "appropriate unit" controversy, employers will be intensely interested, but they will find themselves out on a limb if they confuse it by attempts to revive these features of the original dispute over the passage of the Wagner act which both the CIO and A. F. of L. now consider settled. As a practical matter, the employers cannot command enough votes in congress as yet to change the basic structure of the Wagner act. Their only hope for amendment will come through the insistence of labor organizations themselves, but the latter by no means want the kind of amendments proposed by employers, and the CIO will not be slow to embarrass the A. F. of L. if it should begin to weaken on the fundamentals of the Wagner act itself.

There is enough in the "appropriate unit" clause of the Wagner act to consume all the time congress may be disposed to give to Wagner act amendments. Employer organizations may find it wiser to follow the lead of the A. F. of L. rather than to develop a controversy in which conceivably no amendments

Better to Own and Lose Than to Never Own at All

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Damon Runyon, sitting down to crack his knuckles the way he does before starting his daily story, took a look at a piece about the liquidation of William C. Durant's art treasures and horned his A at the point where old man Durant said he had enjoyed living with these possessions for 30 years and had no regrets. Mr. Durant is the ex-military of General Motors, but was running a bea-

neary not so long ago.

Damon said Mr. Durant's feeling about the loss of material possessions reminded him of his old man's philosophy in such moments. Damon's old man was a printer and editor out around Kansas and Colorado, and Damon says that whenever he lost possession of something—whether his little house, the farm that came and went or his pet shotgun—his old man would say that the joy of possession compensated the financial write-off.

I guess my old man's feeling would have been about the same about material possessions if he had ever had any. He did take a claim to a quarter section of "Dark" land, one time and put an Indian on it, according to the custom of those days, but the Indian jumped the fence and somebody came along to protest the claim on the ground that it wasn't being worked, and took it. According to the law, you had to settle on and work the piece yourself or get someone to do it for you, and it was common practice to get an Indian to build a cabin and putter around a little clearing between brannigans. But if your Indian didn't hold still you might not learn of his disappearance for six months or a year.

Anyway, the lumber barons probably would have flayed my old man's title later on, even if he had closed it. They often did that. They were the law and the courts in the timber country, and if they couldn't trick you out of your place by changing the local map or finding a bug in your title they would flood, burn or shell you out.

Anyway, my old man didn't mind. He had done a little shooting in his timber and had felt the pleasure of nominal ownership for a spell, so it was all even with him. You know—easy go.

Peglers Old Man Wrote

Play, "Little Lost Sister."

As a reporter in the old get-the-story day in Minneapolis or Chicago he never was much bothered by accumulation, but there was rank and pride in the title of star reporter, and my old man was acknowledged a star by friend and foe. I am not writing of my old man in the past tense, please, but only of those days. My old man is still in action, writing the story of his life and a phase of this country's journalism which has been depicted in terms of externals but never has had the benefit of an inside job. He didn't sneer at his work. He was in it and of it and played it with the abandon of a college football star.

I think the only pang my old man ever felt over a loss was along with various attempts to cloud his credit for the authorship of a melodrama of the white slave era called at all may be adopted as a means of escape from the political consequences to members of congress of participation in the CIO-A. F. of L. conflict.

Criticizes 'Approval' Of Sit-Down Strikers

Berlin, Wis.—(U)—Former Congressman William H. Stafford, candidate for the Republican United States senatorial nomination, criticized the Roosevelt administration in an address here last night for its "silent approval" of the sit-down strike.

"Under the Roosevelt administration, as no other, class has been arrayed against class," Stafford said. "With the silent approval, and through the opinion of labor madam Perkins, that the laboring man has been encouraged in the policy of anarchy involved in the sit-down strike."

Stafford continued:

"I favor and always have favored labor organizing for its own benefit but never to the extent of outlawry in taking possession of other men's property. I believe in

Elks Hear Report on Year's Work

GRATE progress has been made during the last year by the Wisconsin Elks association, not only in numbers but in the broadening out of its activities and increased interest in its effort to help the unfortunate. A. J. Geniesse, Milwaukee, president of the association, told delegates to the annual convention in La Crosse Friday night. Mr. Geniesse was formerly of Appleton.

He said in part, "Our great order has grown with the communities in which it is represented, and greater than its numerical growth has been the broadening out of its activities, the increased interest in its efforts to make the pathway a little smoother for the unfortunate, and the greater realization of the important position it occupies as the greatest of all strictly American fraternities in taking a firm stand for the preservation of the flag, the constitution and our democratic institutions."

Commenting on the first state association convention in La Crosse 31 years ago, he said "Our work for crippled children and the unemployed, the awarding of scholarships in recognition of a knowledge of good citizenship, and our observance of Flag day had not been heard of or were a new idea when we met here, but the spirit of civic and patriotic when inspires these activities today is as present and a struggling for new forms of expressions."

Parties

About 12 members of the Novel-History club and friends were entertained at a steak fry last evening at Pierce park. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ashman, Spokane, Wash., who are home guests at the home of Mr. Ashman's mother, Mrs. George Ashman, 206 Memorial drive, and Mrs. John Colenutt, Clearwater, Fla., who spent the last week at the home of Mrs. E. A. Schmalz, 229 N. Drew street, were out-of-town guests.

One hundred twenty-two young people attended the dance sponsored by the committee of Sons of the American Legion last night at the Legion clubhouse.

Art Colony Members

To Return Next Week

Appleton members of the Arenas Art colony at Idlewild, Door county, are expected to return home within a few days as the colony will close its season next week. The Misses Betty and Mary White, nieces of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen C. Rosebush, 411 E. Washington street, will arrive in Appleton Tuesday after spending six weeks at the camp, and David Bliss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bliss, 519 N. Drew street, will come home Sunday after attending the camp for the same period. Bud Hansen, son of Mrs. L. O. Hansen, 909 E. Eldorado street, will return Sunday after a two-week period of study and recreation at Idlewild.

Drama Class Pupils Stage Play at Home Of Faith Frampton

Seven pupils from the drama class which Miss Faith Frampton has been conducting this summer entertained their parents Friday night with a studio production of "Ten Minutes by the Clock," a fantasy of kings and queens.

The play was presented at the Frampton residence, 133 E. Lawrence street, and in the cast were: Ann Hauert as the king; Audrey Wimer as the queen; Shirley Piette as the Gypsy; Lois Mielke as Pom-pom, the butler; Emmy Lou Hubbard as the page; and Pauline Ott and John Heller as Dux and Dox, lackies.

Younger Social Set Preparing for Opening of Colleges

Representative of the back-to-school movement which is occupying the attention of the younger set these days are these pictures of Appleton co-eds who will be bound for colleges in Wisconsin, Ohio, Iowa and Illinois next month. Well aware of what the well-dressed college girl wears, La Verne Christensen, left, and Jeanne White, right in the top picture, went to the sportswear departments to do their shopping and were much interested in the reversible sport and rain coats that are being shown this fall. Miss Christensen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Christensen, 409 W. Eighth street, will enter Stout Institute at Menomonie, Wis., and Miss White, the daughter of Mrs. Margaret White, 923 W. Lawrence street, will be a freshman at the Oshkosh State Teachers' college.

Recipient of a scholarship to Oberlin college at Oberlin, Ohio, Miss Dorothy Frank, left in the center picture, will be a freshman at that school this fall. She and Iris Boyer, who will enter Cornell college, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, were playing with the Boyers' shaggy-haired Scotties when this picture was taken. Miss Frank is the daughter of Mrs. J. P. Frank, 228 N. Park avenue, and Miss Boyer's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Boyer, 323 N. Ida street.

Being a coed will be no novelty to Miss Elizabeth Catlin, lower left, for she studied at Lawrence college last year, but this year it will seem like a new adventure again, for she is transferring to Northwestern university at Evanston. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Catlin, 322 South court. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Union Will Hold Nuptial Gown Show

A GOWN to represent every decade in this country since 1770 is the plan which Social Union of First Methodist church hopes to carry out by its wedding gown pageant to be held Sept. 16 at the church. Cedar chests, trunks and moth-proof boxes throughout the community are being raided to supply the gowns which will be displayed in the pageant, and in some cases the dresses will come from as far as Chicago and Washington, D. C.

In addition to showing gowns of the United States, the pageant will display native costumes of as many foreign countries as it is possible to obtain. Thus far the committee has secured a Persian gown belonging to John Yonan.

Mrs. Harry C. Culver is general chairman of the event and Mrs. O. R. Kloehn is chairman of the United States committee. Miss Mae Webster is writing the rhythmic lines which will serve as an introduction to the showing of each gown in the pageant, and Miss Irene Bidwell has charge of all the music which will be used as a background.

High School Epworth League of First Methodist church will hold a regular meeting tomorrow evening at 6:30. James Bailey is president of the group.

Doris Babcock Becomes Bride of Harold Brooks

MISS Doris Babcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Babcock, 116 E. North street, became the bride of Harold W. Brooks, 904 N. Douglas street, in a ceremony performed at 8:30 this morning at St. Joseph's church by the Rev. Father Gerard. Miss Elaine Babcock, sister of the bride, Wallace Hagman and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Steger attended the couple. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents for the bride's relatives, and a wedding dinner was served this noon at the Brooks home for the bridegroom's relatives. A reception is being held at the latter place this afternoon.

When they return from a short wedding trip, Mr. Brooks and his bride will make their home at 413 N. Division street. A graduate of Appleton High school with the class of 1935, the bridegroom is employed by the Deep Rock Oil corporation. His bride was graduated from the high school in 1937.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Peterson and daughter, La Verne, and Larry Abels, Harvey, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reinhardt, Mrs. Louise Reinhardt and daughter, Jane, Carl Wenzel and Jack Parish, Stevens Point; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Geiger, their son, Donald, and their daughter, Alberta, Bancroft, Wis.; Mrs. Arnold Mages, Marion and Mr. and Mrs. John Evers and son, Walter, Little Chute.

Oates-Kringle

The marriage of Miss Norma G. Oates, daughter of Mrs. Lucille

Oates, Bloomington, to Edward A. Kringle, Kimberly, was solemnized at 9 o'clock this morning by Justice of the Peace Floyd Lambert, Kimberly, at his home.

Mrs. Floyd Lambert and Otto Harko attended the couple. Mr. and Mrs. Kringle will make their home on John street, Kimberly.

Bartels - Radtke

The marriage of Miss Olga Bartels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bartels, Cecil, Wis., to Henry Radtke, 1744 N. Superior street, was solemnized at 1:30 this afternoon in the parsonage of Zion Lutheran church. The Rev. Theodore Marth performed the ceremony, and Mr. and Mrs. Omer Schmirler attended the couple.

A wedding dinner this evening at the Candle Glow Tea room will be followed by a reception for about 200 guests at Koehn's hall. Out-of-town guests expected here for the occasion are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bartels, their son, Marvin, and their daughter, Alice, and their daughters, Alice and Addelheit, Harvey, Ebel, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Pahl and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pahl, Cecil, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Roland Bartels, Shawano; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Muck, Angellia; and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Eggebrecht and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Eggebrecht, White Lake, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Radtke will not take their wedding trip until the Labor day weekend, when they will go to Milwaukee. They will make their home at 1744 N. Superior street.

Oppelt-La Selle

At 8 o'clock this morning at St. Patrick church, Menasha, Miss Mary Oppelt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Oppelt, 404 Pine street, Menasha, became the bride of Orville La Selle, 626 Jackson street, Neenah, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil La Selle, Iron Mountain, Mich. The nuptial mass was read by the Rev. W. P. Motte, Miss Doris La Selle, Iron Mountain, sister of the bridegroom, and John Oppelt, brother of the bride, attended the couple.

A wedding dinner was served to 22 guests this noon at the home of the bride's parents and was followed by a reception.

When they return from a wedding trip to the Black Hills of South Dakota, Mr. and Mrs. La Selle will make their home temporarily with the bride's parents until their new home on Pine street, Menasha, is completed. Both the bride and bridegroom are employed by the Kimberly-Clark corporation at Neenah.

Rules School at Kenosha Handled Funds Illegally

MADISON—(P)—Attorney General Orland S. Loomis ruled today that the Kenosha school of vocational and adult education has engaged in an illegal practice in handling its funds.

The procedure to which Loomis objected involved bank deposit of funds furnished by the director of the school, which would be withdrawn on checks signed by the president and secretary of the board of vocational and adult education.

Loomis advised the state banking commission that common school districts whose territory covers that of a fourth class city are separate municipal units and their bonds are not to be considered bonds of the city. The question arose in connection with a proposed bond issue in Edgerton.

The attorney general announced approval of a $3,000 loan from state trust funds to School District No. 2 of the town of Lisbon, Waukesha county, for improvements. A loan of $17,000 to the town of Mercer, Iron county, for refunding indebtedness also was approved.

Block Attempt to Move Machinery From Plant

RACINE—(P)—Union employees of the Nash-Kelvinator company reported today they had frustrated an attempt to move dies and fenders from the company's Racine plant.

The plant has been closed, the company announcing operations would be moved to its Kenosha factory. Eight hundred persons were thrown out of work.

The workers, demanding that operations be retained here, recently served notice they would seek to block any attempt to remove tools and equipment. Accordingly, they have thrown picket lines around the property.

Spokesmen for the pickets said a foreman approached the plant in a truck late yesterday, but turned back when he saw men had been posted in front of the gate. The unionists said he told them he had come for dies and fenders.

Stop Beloit From Paying Ousted School Director

BELOIT—(P)—City officials were served with an injunction yesterday restraining them from issuing D. F. Rice, ousted superintendent of schools, his $375 August pay check.

The order was obtained by Herman F. Schroeder, president of the Beloit unit of the United Taxpayers Co-Operative association of Wisconsin, from Willard H. McDermott, a court commissioner.

The newest injunction in the series pending hearing of charges against Rice will be argued Sept. 2.

Luebke, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Luebke, Maribel, Wis., were married at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Emanuel Evangelical church, the Rev. C. H. Blum performing the ceremony. Miss Hazel Luebke, Milwaukee, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. Miss Enid Horn was bridesmaid. Harold Hameister, brother of the bride, best man, and Roland Pfefferkorn, Mishicot, Wis., another attendant.

The wedding march was played by Charles Schilling, New York, cousin of the bride, and Ralph Zachow sang "At Dawning" and "O Promise Me."

The ceremony was followed by a reception and wedding dinner at the home of the bride's parents, after which the couple will leave on a trip to Niagara Falls and Washington, D. C. They will make their home at Maribel.

Signs Statement Accusing Other Woman of Firing Fatal Shots

Fairfield, Ill.—(P)—Deputy Sheriff Adam Gleschner said today Mrs. Jean Brooks, 23, slender Tennessee mountain woman, had signed a written statement accusing her husband's companion, Mrs. Beulah Honeycutt, 25, of firing the two shots that killed Felix Shannon.

Shannon, 56, was shot to death in his home near Mount Erie Sunday night after he had picked up two women hitch-hikers on the road. The two women were captured Tuesday at Hopkinsville, Ky.

Gleschner said the principal details of the written statement were the same as Mrs. Brooks' oral confession, in which Sheriff Ernest Burkett quoted her as saying she was in another room when Mrs. Honeycutt shot Shannon.

The sheriff quoted Mrs. Brooks as saying Mrs. Honeycutt then ordered her to fire one shot also, "so you can't squeal on me."

Mrs. Honeycutt, a taciturn blonde, admitted orally that she was at Shannon's home, but accused Mrs. Brooks of firing the shots, Burkett said.

Valley Council Camp To End Season Sunday

The last of the scout clan which took possession of Gardner Dam, valley council camp, during the summer will leave Sunday.

Fifty-five youths, who spend this last week hiking and riding rafts down the Wolf river, will pack up their belongings and head for home. They represent the sixth of the weekly contingents that camped on the wooded site this summer.

A total of 430 scouts, by far the greatest number in council history, camped at Gardner Dam this summer.

ANNE PARRISH has done, probably, the best job of her most productive career in a novel she calls "Mr. Despondency's Daughter," out this week. It is a full-length, three-dimensional portrait of a clinging mother who learned the truth about herself and did something about it—only to have her first great selfishness called selfishness by her friends.

Neller Talks on 'Sales Mean Jobs'

A talk covering the history, economic significance, and aims of the "Sales Mean Jobs" crusade now being carried on in Appleton and vicinity was given by John H. Neller, a member of the crusade steering committee, before the board of directors of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce yesterday noon in the Northern hotel.

The chamber directors approved a suggestion to honor the SOTAL Drum and Bugle corps, recently named state champions at the Ashland American Legion convention. A committee composed of Karl Haugen, Richard Mahony, and Dan Stenberg, Sr., was appointed to work with city officials and members of the Oney Johnston post.

Joseph Koffend was named chairman of the chamber forum committee for the coming year, replacing Dr. Carl Neidhold. The forum committee arranges joint gatherings of service clubs and the chamber at which outstanding speakers appear.

3,000 See Children's Day Show at Waupaca County Fair Friday

Weyauwega—About 3,000 persons, more than half of them youngsters, attended the children's day program at the Waupaca County Fair at Weyauwega yesterday.

Featuring the afternoon program was an amateur talent contest, which was won by Melvin Meyers, route 2, New London, who played a guitar and sang a vocal solo. Other prizes went to Nadine and Vonnice Eisner, Manawa, duet; Malinda Kitzmann, Manawa, piano accordion; Russell Chich, Weyauwega, and Edwin Roland, Oshkosh, violin and guitar duet.

This evening the regular stage show will be presented and Sunday afternoon's program will be featured by a Wolf Valley league baseball game between Manawa and Weyauwega. The Manawa and Weyauwega bands will present concerts.

Alexander Wiley, Chippewa Falls, candidate for United States senator, will speak at the fair Sunday evening.

WPA Recreational Head Sets Day to Map City Program

A systematic program of athletic, musical, craft, social and dramatic activities for boys and girls during the fall and winter months will be mapped at a meeting of persons interested at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, Aug. 31, at the Appleton Y. M. C. A., according to H. F. Moor, assistant director of the WPA recreational program in Wisconsin.

The WPA is seeking the cooperation of civic, service and fraternal organizations as well as others who may be interested.

Men will be picked from the various groups to work out the details and get the cooperation of the park and school boards. The parks are needed during the summer and the winter program would be conducted partly in school gymnasiums.

More ice rinks and ski slides are needed in the city to carry on an outdoor program. Hubert Piette, county WPA director, said. If money is secured to launch the program this winter, cooperation of city officials may be requested.

Annual Corn Pack Gets Underway at Clintonville Firm

Clintonville—The annual corn pack was begun Thursday afternoon at the plant of the Clintonville canning company. A large output is expected from the bumper corn crop following the abundant rainfall this season. The annual bean pack, which is nearing completion, is approximately 60,000 cases, and is more than twice the number of cases canned last year at the local plant.

A team of horses belonging to Arthur Meech, route 1, Clintonville, ran away with a wagon load of corn about 11 o'clock Friday morning when entering the city on S. Main street. After becoming frightened, the horses ran wildly for about two blocks, scattering corn along the street. They came to a halt in front of the Fred Tanner grocery store where they crashed into the J. K. Vaite bakery truck. One of the horses fell to the pavement, fracturing its front leg making it necessary to send the animal to a fox farm. One fender of the truck was badly damaged.

Farewell Party

Mrs. Howard Smiley was honored at a farewell party given by members of the Order of Eastern Star Friday at the cottage of Mrs. Roy Martin at Clover Leaf lakes. A 1 o'clock luncheon was served, after which prizes were won by Mrs. J. E. Long, Mrs. A. L. Merrill, Mrs. Douglas Nelson, and Mrs. W. T. Luedtke. A gift was presented to Mrs. Smiley who held the office of chaplain of the chapter.

Neighbors of Mrs. Smiley gave a farewell party for her Thursday evening at the Park View hotel. Three tables of cards provided entertainment and Mrs. Smiley received a gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smiley and son Billy will leave next week to make their home at Brownstown, near Monroe in southern Wisconsin. Mr. Smiley has been transferred to a Borden milk plant there after having been employed at the Clintonville plant for the last nine years.

Mrs. Lewis Walter of East Orange, New Jersey, left for Oshkosh Friday after visiting for the last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Velte, and with her sister, Mrs. Walter Velte, and family. Mrs. Walter is the former Miss Carol Velte of Clintonville and a graduate of the nurses training course at Theda Clark hospital, Neenah. Dr. Lewis Walter is arriving Saturday after which they will visit for several weeks with his parents at Oniro and with relatives here.

Christus Luther League met at the church parlors Thursday evening. Following a program of entertainment, a lunch was served by a committee composed of Norman Rosnow, Howard Pasch, Lucille Kroll and Marion Peterson.

Townsend Funeral

Funeral services for Charles W. Townsend, 71, of Green Bay, a former resident of this city, were conducted at 1:30 this afternoon at the residence in Green Bay. The Rev. Charles Damp of Fond du Lac and the Rev. Gifford Ruby of Green Bay were in charge of the services. The funeral cortege, motored by Clintonville, which later moved to the residence in Green Bay, was made in Graceland cemetery. Masonic rites were conducted at the grave.

Born at Neenah, March 3, 1867, the deceased moved with his parents to Minnesota and later to Clintonville. Here he was married in 1896 to Miss Agnes Hintz and they resided in this city until moving to Green Bay 13 years ago. Mr. Townsend retired in 1937 after completing forty-one years of service for the Chicago and North Western Railroad company. Starting as a steel worker he later became a timber cruiser and land agent covering the territory of Wisconsin and upper Michigan. He held this position until his retirement last year.

Survivors are the widow, two sons, Dr. Wayne Townsend of Green Bay, and Lloyd Townsend of Rice Lake; one sister, Mrs. Anna Foster of Vera Cruz, Calif., two brothers, Frank Townsend of Burlington, Wash., and Albert Townsend of Oshkosh.

The deceased was a member of Clintonville lodge No. 197 F. and A. M. and belonged to the First Presbyterian church at Green Bay.

Church Pickets to Recite Rosary on Parish House Lawn

Vulcan, Mich.—(P)—Picketing parishioners of St. Barbara's Catholic church, who have restrained their priest from fulfilling a transfer order, are preparing to recite the rosary on the parish house lawn tomorrow in lieu of church services.

The pickets, who have kept the Rev. Simon Borkowski a virtual prisoner in his home for 14 days, said there would be no services tomorrow, but members of the parish would gather for the prayer, as they did last Sunday.

The pickets are making their vigil as comfortable as possible. Women bring sewing and find shady areas in the park adjoining the church grounds. Men loaf about the grass. Lunches are served from an automobile trailer used as a soup kitchen. The picketing is on three eight-hour shifts daily.

Humor in Reminiscences of A 'Horse and Buggy Doctor'

By Jean Wiley Thickens

"HORSE AND BUGGY DOCTOR" by Arthur Hertzler, "Horse and Buggy Doctor" by Arthur Hertzler is a full of humor, slightly bawdy humor as a coconuts is full of milk. Dr. Hertzler in his delightful volume of reminiscences views with a somewhat jaundiced eye the doctor's profession of half a century. A product of a poverty stricken Kansas farm, Hertzler worked his way through what corresponded to a medical school, a decidedly elementary institution in those early days in the middle-west. The school term consisted of two years of five months each "and," states the good doctor, "in that brief period a young student could learn all and more than the school was prepared to teach him." Text books, instruments and experimental laboratories were almost totally lacking and it was not until he had scraped together sufficient funds to finance two years of study in the hospitals and clinics of Berlin that he felt himself equipped to minister intelligently to the needs of the isolated farming community in his native Kansas, which he had selected as his field of endeavor.

Dr. Hertzler vividly maintains that a great deal of the technique which is the modern physician's stock in trade today is merely stage setting to impress the layman with his superior knowledge. He himself has never wavered from the professional standard which he established for himself when still a student and which consisted of a dual vow: (1) that he would always be honest with his patients, no matter what the cost, and (2) that he would never cease studying for he realized that medical knowledge becomes obsolete with surprising rapidity and that any physician who feels that he has attained his ambition, never really had any.

One chapter in his book is devoted to the evolution of surgery from its primitive beginning. He discusses with amusing frankness what he terms "kitchen surgery" and states as his belief that the only two essential for success in this field are a good surgeon and a good patient. Some of his most difficult operations have been performed in isolated farm kitchens with only a kitchen table and a few simple surgical instruments as equipment. Lacking even the table he has been known to utilize a door, removed from its hinges and laid across two barrels.

Operation Outdoors

He describes with meticulous detail a difficult brain operation which he successfully performed outdoors beneath an apple tree, because the farmer's one room shack was too small and dirty to permit him to operate inside. He adds parenthetically that "fortunately" there were no birds roosting in the apple tree during the operation." Dr. Hertzler stresses the great importance of a thorough knowledge of psychology in dealing with patients and remarks that he personally has known many cases which, while in genuine need of surgery, were little benefited after the operation had been performed because the patient's mind was still disturbed. Fear, anger, or grief will prevent recovery from a disease, or from surgery, (although performed by the most skillful of men) while on the other hand the most serious and apparently hopeless cases will recover with astonishing rapidity when the patient's mind has been relieved of its worry or grief.

Tolerance, wisdom, humor and patience are evidenced in Dr. Hertzler's book and it is obvious that he healed not only broken bodies but broken hearts as well. Although a member of the medical profession will undoubtedly derive more inspiration and perhaps widen the scope of his medical knowledge through a perusal of Dr. Hertzler's reminiscences, no reader could fail to enjoy it nor to be impressed with the sturdy pioneer virtues displayed by this rough and ready Kansas farm doctor who, through trial and error, succeeded in winning for himself an enviable reputation in his chosen profession. "Horse and Buggy Doctor" is a genuine addition to the constantly growing fund of Americana which a century or two hence will successfully mirror for coming generations the life of a typical pioneer physician in middle western America in the eighteenth century.

2 Former Residents Of Chilton Succumb

Chilton—Henry Roach received word Monday of the death of his sister, Mrs. Hanna Ward, which occurred at the home of her daughter in Chicago Monday. The funeral was held at Milwaukee Thursday morning from the Gesu church.

Mrs. Ward, who was 77 years old, was born in the town of Chilton and lived here until she grew to womanhood. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Herbert Huebman, Chicago, and Mrs. Thomas O'Neill, St. Louis; four brothers, Michael Roach, Wausau, M. J. Roach, Stevens Point; Thomas Weatherby, Ore.; and Henry, Chilton.

Miss Corinne McMullen received word of the death of her cousin, Mrs. Oliver Hebert, which occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. E. Storm, Grand Junction, Col., Aug. 13. Mrs. Hebert, who lived for many years in Chilton, was born in Belgium in 1855 and came to America as a child with her parents. She was married here to Oliver Hebert, who built the brick building now occupied as the Odd Fellows' temple, in which he conducted a hardware store. Later he studied medicine and located in Milwaukee. He died in 1912 in Grand Junction.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Walter Wilhem, San Jose, Calif.; Mrs. Storm, and Florence, Seattle.

The following marriage licenses were issued by County Clerk Roland Miller during the past week: Arthur Jensen, town of Calumet, Fond du Lac county, and Florence Bernard, town of Harrison; Raphael Mathes, New Holstein, and Annette DeTroye, town of Schleswig, Manitowish county; William Knauf and Viola Weber, Chilton; Hilbert Radloff, town of Brillion, and Ellen Koerth, town of Hollandtown, Brown county; David Wagoner, New Holstein, and Jean Stewart, Kiel; Nicholas Diederich, town of Stockbridge, and Edah Schmeiser, town of Chilton; Francis Salm, town of Clayton, Winnebago county, and Florence M. Thiel, town of Harrison.

Parents Have No Right to Push Children on In-Laws

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I have a neighbor in her early twenties whose husband has a good steady job. They have only one child, a bright little girl of 5, whom they send to her grandparents for six months of each year so that she may not be bothered with her and may be free to do as they please. The grandparents are old people who live in another state and are very poor. The grandfather works hard, making each month less than the young husband makes in a week, but the parents not only do not pay any board for the child, but the grandparents have to supply it with clothes, shoes, etc., out of their scanty income. The grandparents have told the parents that they are able to care for the child in any way, but not able to care for the child in any way, but same. Don't you think that this child will grow up without any affection for her parents? I may be obsolete in my ideas, but I wouldn't give up the daily association with my younger for anything in the world. What will be the result of the parents' neglect of this child, and how will it reflect in a MOTHER.

Answer: I think your neighbors have no natural parental feeling for their child, and so she is probably better off with her grandparents than she would be with her cold-hearted and selfish mother and father.

No doubt her grandmother and grandfather give her the love and tenderness that the little girl needs, and they are doing the best they can to mold the little character into a form of sweetness and beauty, and start the little feet down the road of right living. But why the mother and father are willing to make their child's babyhood pass understanding. They are cutting themselves out of one of the most thrilling and interesting experiences in life, for nothing is more fascinating than to watch a little child's mind expand, and nothing more numerous and entertaining than to hear its naive comments on the world as it sees it from its high chair. Just as pure diversion it is to watch all the night clubs and drinking places and all-night parties that you can see up in a blue moon.

It is a mystery why these misguided parents do not realize that in sending their child away from them for more than half the time they are alienating her affections from them. Children's love is founded on habit and dependence, and if these are denied them by parents who push them out of their home and their lives in order to be free, then the children inevitably grow up not only with no affection for their fathers and mothers, but a resentment for the wrong they have done them.

For parents to think that their children will love them because it is their duty to do is nonsense. There is no obligation in love. Children may back to their parents only the affection they receive, and in later days when these parents expect their daughters to be tender and devoted to them and they find they are cold and hard they will have only themselves to blame.

But the great wrong that this selfish and self-centered young couple are committing is against the old people whom they are victimizing for their own pleasure. They are old and feeble, poor and hard worked, and it is an outrage that anything more should be laid upon their bent old backs when they already are staggering along under all the load they can carry.

No matter how sweet and dear a child is, it is a great care. There are a million things that have to be done for it. Special food has to be prepared for it. It has to be watched over continually and in its restlessness its eagerness, its bubbling joy and excitement in everything it does, the quiet and peace of a home and friends if noisy and stirred.

Used Double Squeeze Plus Late Finesse

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Knowing your public is interested in unusual hands, I am going to tell you of one that came up in our regular rubber bridge game. As I happened to be the hero, I naturally am proud of the hand. I had to use a double squeeze, plus a delayed finesse, which I believe is a little variation. "South, dealer. "Both sides vulnerable. NORTH ♠ A 10 6 3 ♥ A J 4 ♦ A 10 9 8 ♣ A 10 9 8 WEST ♠ 5 ♥ K 10 7 2 ♦ 9 5 3 ♣ J 4 3 2 EAST ♠ 9 8 5 3 ♥ K Q 6 4 2 ♦ K 7 5 ♣ K 7 5 SOUTH ♠ K Q J 7 2 ♥ A 10 7 ♦ A 9 6 ♣ 6 6

"The bidding: South 1 spade Pass 4 spades Pass 5 diamonds Pass 6 spades Pass

"West opened a trump and, when the dummy appeared, it seemed to me that North had done some pretty tall bidding. It was true that he had three aces and good spade support, but to mention a couple of jacks, but I had given no encouragement after my opening bid, and there surely were a lot of losers in his hand. However, I saw that if I was lucky enough to find a couple of cards right, it would not be too difficult to make twelve tricks. "I won the opening lead in my own hand, and laid down the club queen. If I had found the king on my left, I could easily have established two club tricks for diamond discards, and then a heart finesse would bring me home. East, however, had the club king and, winning with it, shot back the diamond king. I won and now saw that I would have to find the club jack on my left. So, after laying down a high spade to draw the other outstanding trump, I led a club and finessed with the eight spot, which held. The club ace failed to drop the jack, but I still did not give up hope. I discarded a diamond on the club ace and then ran off trumps, until my own hand was one spade, the Q-6 of hearts, and the 10 of diamonds. I had reduced dummy to the A-J-4 of hearts and the 10 of clubs. Now when I played the 10 of spades, West was in trouble. At this point he held the K-10 and a low heart, and the jack of clubs. Naturally, he could not let go the club so he had to come down to the blank K-10 of hearts. Dummy's club having served its purpose, I then discarded it. Now it was East's turn to squirm. He could not let go the diamond queen (my ten would be good) and, therefore, he also had to reduce to two hearts. I led the heart queen and, when West covered, dummy's A-J-4 became good. Obviously, if West had not covered, I would have finessed with the same result.

"Of course, if West had had the hunch to open diamonds, the squeeze would have been impossible. "G. B. S. Altoona, Pa."

Undoubtedly the slam contract was ambitious, but at least it gave my correspondent the opportunity to distinguish himself in the play. Write your bridge troubles and problems to Ely Culbertson, care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright, 1938)

Old Gardener Says:

The best time in the year for the making of new lawns is close at hand. Much better results are obtained in the autumn than in the spring, and late August is none too soon to begin the work. Grazing must come first, and the soil should be permitted to settle a few weeks before the seed goes in. If the land is very heavy, drainage must be provided for, perhaps by means of tile drains. The land should slope a little when graded, although not enough to be noticeable. It is wise to work a good complete fertilizer into the soil when it is being leveled off, and the grass seed should be sown when the wind is not blowing. Early morning is the best time. No seed but the best is good enough for a new lawn and it should be sown very carefully to make certain of an even distribution. The best work is done with a seed-sowing machine, which sometimes may be rented. And of course, there is much advantage in sowing the seed in advance of a gentle shower, although the gardener is not always a successful weather prophet. (Copyright, 1938)

Blanc mange may be easily removed from a mold if a cloth is dipped in hot water, wrung until it will not drip, and wrapped around mold. Turn bottom of mold upward on a flat dish and shake gently to dislodge contents. and do things on week-ends. Don't make her come home from parties at 10 o'clock just when they are starting but don't let her stay out until 7 and 3 in the morning. Make all the boys who come to the house welcome, but don't let her go off on automobile rides with a lot of youngsters. Explain to her the danger, morally as well as physically. Girls have a lot of respect for their father's opinion because they think they know the world. Make a confidante of your daughter and tell her what you know about men and boys. Sometimes I think a father is a better guide for a girl than her mother is. (Copyright 1938)

Uncle Ray's Corner

A Little Saturday Talk

Will plain water boil over? The answer to that question is, "Not in the same way milk or many other liquids heated in the kitchen will boil over." Of course if we fill a pan brimming full of water, it will spill over when the water boils. The bubbles will burst, and water will spatter over the rim. That is "boiling over" of a sort, but most housewives think of something else when they speak of the danger of boiling over. An open pan may be only half full of liquid, when suddenly the boiling starts and the liquid rises to the top and goes over. On the other hand, a housewife may put enough plain water in a sauce pan to make it half full, and place it on the fire with no fear of having it foam upward. The water may boil away but it will not boil over. If a little oatmeal or other cereal is placed in the water, it very soon will rise in the pan. Often it rises so high that it overflows, and in this case it is likely to put out the gas. In the same way, milk will rise in an open pan, and so will some (but not all) kinds of soup. If we add several tablespoonsful of sugar to boiling water, it will go up and maybe over. Why is it that boiling water will foam up when certain things are added to it? The reason is in those bubbles. The boiling bubbles of plain water quickly break at the surface. When certain things are added to the water, they make the bubble films stronger — so strong that they do not easily break. The bubbles take extra space in the pan, and the more there are the more space they take. That is why there may be no room left in the pan, even though it was only half full at the beginning. I have spoken of an "open pan." If we put ordinary water in a closed pan, something would happen before long. With a cover so tight that no steam could escape, the steam pressure would build it off by and by. There may be trouble even with a teakettle with a spout. The steam inside sometimes forces water out of the spout. At sea level, water begins to boil when it has a temperature of 212 degrees Fahrenheit. On a mountain top, it is not the same story—the water boils when it is not so hot. That is why it takes longer to get potatoes or other vegetables well cooked when you're camping in the mountains. # Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

With the advent of early fall—with the back-to-school and business migration—our skins are bound to fade from the summer tan the vacation days have given us. It is during September when one often sees women and girls with garish make-up. Their rouge, lipstick and powder are often the wrong shades for their current skin tone. They either hang on to their suntan make-up or revert quickly to the make-up they had last spring. So the effect is either too dark, or too light. It is not difficult to keep blending your powder yourself if you cannot afford to buy it blended at a cosmetic counter. All you need do is hang on to the two or three boxes of powder you buy during a season or year. As your skin lightens this autumn, take a small quantity of your suntan powder and shake it up well with a smaller quantity of your spring shade powder. Test it on your skin and keep blending until you have the matching shade. Powder is used to take unbecoming shine off your skin. Only for dress occasions in the evening is it ever used to "lighten" your skin. During the daytime you should try cleverly to keep to your natural coloring, slightly enhanced by face powder, rouge and lipstick. If You're Young If your skin is firm, and free of blemishes you will be most fashionable if you leave the natural "shine" on your face during the daylight hours. Bright lipstick, a little vaseline for lashes and brows is all the make-up you require. But if your skin is aging and not too smooth in texture then you will be wise to use perfectly blended powder over a little foundation cream to get a more velvety effect. For evening wear, you may play around with mascara, more brilliant rouge, eye shadow and brow pencils, until your heart's content. You may, if you desire, wear light-colored powder, too, than what you do in the daylight hours. With the gradual change of powder color, you must also change your rouge coloring—both cheeks and lips. And to be most meticulous, your nail polish changes its hue also! The orange tints that harmonize so well with suntan, just shrink in contrast to lighter skin tones. You can, of course, buy small quantities of both rouge and lipstick for a few pennies to tide you over the "in between" period of autumn and winter. Once your skin has bleached you may decide on lip and cheek coloring to last the winter through! Are you neglecting your feet? They need constant care for beauty's sake. Send for my leaflet "Beauty Through Foot Health" to guide your grooming. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope for mailing costs. Address me in care of this paper. (Copyright, 1938.)

My Neighbor Says—

If your madonna lilies suffered from disease this season bulbs should be lifted now and moved to another part of your garden. They will recover soon and start flowering as freely as ever. Keep a piece of sand paper in the kitchen drawer to help you get at hard-to-open jars and bottles. Wrap the sandpaper around the cap and use it as a grip. Or, you might use a couple of rubber bands twisted around the cap for a grip. Never boil more than 4 cups of juice for jelly in one pan. Use two pans, each holding that amount, if desired. It is difficult to obtain a good jelly test when a large quantity is boiled at once. Lemons should be cut with clean edges when used to garnish all kinds of shellfish, broiled, fried, baked and boiled fish as well as fancy salads. For decorative purposes they may be cut into many fancy shapes. (Copyright, 1938.)

Mistakes of Children Not Deliberate Badness

BY ANGELO PATRI

Human nature tends toward goodness. Children are naturally good. They will choose to do right most of the time, and when they make a mistake it is not deliberate badness, but natural ignorance and imposed inexperience. Children need education and training, after which they can be left to go their way secure in their inherent goodness. This is the reason why we can, and do, leave children to their own devices so much of the time. They tend to go in the right direction, and so we can be relieved of guard duty hours on end. Given the little and essential attention they need they are likely to do very well. If given too many directions, watched too closely, held too tightly, they begin to feel uneasy in their bonds and try to escape. Then they get into trouble. If you hold a baby's hands tightly he will begin to squirm; continue to hold them and he will begin to cry; keep on holding them and he will go into a rage and fight for freedom. Something like that happens in the mind of the child who is too well-watched and tended. Some children require more tending than others. That fact is soon discovered. When it is discovered the cause for such a condition should be sought and removed, if possible. Healthy children should be able to get along with the minimum of direction and the maximum of personal responsibility. It is the neurotic, the ailing children who need constant care. For them the specialist's services should be secured. For others, the healthy sturdy self-directing ones, the light hand, the loose rein.

Conscientious mothers fear to take their eyes off their children and say, "I wouldn't think of neglecting my child like that. Just think. I've seen that child out in the garden there for the past two hours and never a soul to see as much as look at him. I wouldn't dare do that with my child." "Why? Is he so bad?" "Bad? He's the best child in the place. But I look after him. I never neglect him." Again and again mothers display this attitude. Motherly devotion to a duty that does not demand such devotion takes its toll of fatigue, illness and premature old age in every generation. If mothers could only realize that their lives here on earth, beside their children, in health and strength are far more important to the children than the constant tenderness they give them, their lives would not so often be self-motherless at a time when they need mothering most. Set the baby in his pen and leave him alone for an hour. Send the youngster to school along with his companions and let him attend to his own going and coming. Train any give his mother a rest very day and trust him to do it. Goodness is the expression of body and mind. If a child is endowed with that health he can help himself much requires.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on child care and development of children. Write him on three cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply. (Copyright, 1938)

HOLLYWOOD LIGHTS CAMERA ACTION HAPPENINGS

MY ROBBIN COONS Hollywood — More about screen supervisors: The Screen Director's Guild "analysis" — blaming the "inept" among associate producers for much movie waste — said it one way. That was the serious, or we-meaning business way. But the supervisor (or associate producer) has been taking it out from the jokemasters. Hollywood stopped growing oranges and took up fruit of other odds. Without the supervisor, the Hollywood jokebook would be a poor thin volume devoted to the malaprop classics of Samuel Goldwyn, Harry Cohn, Jack Warner, "Uncle Carl" Laemmle, an occasional director or star. With the supervisor, the jokebook's encyclopedic. Wanna sample it? This granddaddy of all movie jokes is the hoary classic, vintage 1911, when Hollywood hadn't yet annexed Los Angeles. The director had ambitions. He was going to do a BIG outdoor epic. He was going on location. He had picked the spot. "Just think — gorgeous trees, wonderful rocks!" How much? said the producer. (The supervisor hadn't been spawned yet but was on his way.) The director told him. Said the producer: "A tree's a tree and a rock's a rock — shoot it in Griffith Park!" Oh, all right — it's the Great Granddaddy. Many associate producers today — Kenneth McFowan, Robert Lord, Henry Blanke and others the directors admire and respect for their works — are scholarly gentlemen, but here's the earliest definition of a supervisor: "A man who knows what he wants — but can't spell it." Then there's this one: The associate producer wanted an assistant. He interviewed applicants. "How much is 2 and 2?" he shot at the first. "Four," snapped the job-hunter. "Hm — fast guy, huh? You wait outside." To the second, the same brain test. "Two and two? Lessee — er — four . . ." "Hm — m — I like a man what things things over. Wait outside." The third didn't even gulp. "Five," he retorted. You're supposed to ask which got the job. The third, of course. And why? "Oh, he was the associate producer's nephew."

And the foreign star was having trouble with her consonants. She couldn't say "em. The supervisor got word, came running, his gigantic brain working. "Trouble with consonants, huh? Well, we fix the script. We take out all the consonants and put in vowels! Get going!" Inspiration — if you believe the yarns — is a commonplace among supervisors. It strikes, but then again it does a sit-down strike and comes only after deliberation and much contemplation of the supervisory nagel. The hero of this one had heard somewhere that minor chords in music tended to depress the listener. He thought it over. Several days later he issued this dictum: "From now on we have no minor chords in our musical scores. We want our audience to be happy." This one is told either on supervisors, directors, or producers, according to the teller's prevailing prejudice. The supervisor, who treasured his own reserved parking place on the lot, one day found it occupied by an actress's car. Indignant, he ordered her to move it. "I'm sorry," she said sweetly. "I knew it was your space but I didn't think you'd be here any more. I just saw your new picture."

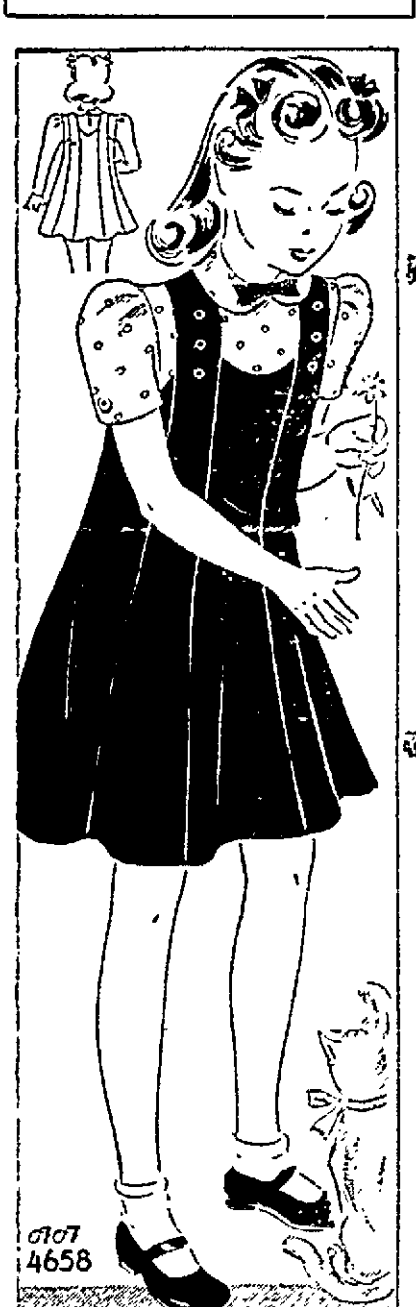

Brighten up the sun porch this fall by using gaily-colored awning materials for shades on the windows and doors. The material is not expensive. You can tack it on to the regular window shade rollers quite easily. Add fringe as a special decorative touch.

Fresia and oxalis bulbs are brought into flower much more slowly than most of the other bulbs used for Winter decoration. If they are wanted for Christmas blooming they should be started now. It is not necessary to place the potted bulbs in a dark cool place, as is the case with daffodils and tulips, but they should be kept out of the sun until well started. This is also the time to start the calla lily into growth by repotting it in rich loam, but without increasing the size of the pot. The low growing Godfrey calla is better than the tall old-fashioned kind for general use.

The Characters
Hugo Stern, handsome author, living on the French Riviera
Archie Lumsden, myself, Hugo's friend.
Rene Geiss, a singularly unpleasant cartoonist.

Yesterday, Geiss is allowed for the murder of the mannequin, Eve Monet, and the American detective, O'Donnell, by a party at his home.

Chapter Seven
Jean-Francois

The next morning as I was eating breakfast on the terrace, Hugo came towards me, an unlit pipe between his teeth, his face somber.

"The police chief wants us down at the town hall at noon," he went on. "I've just been talking to him on the phone. The examining magistrate arrived from Grasse at some unearthly hour this morning. Now he proposes to put us all through the hoop."

He broke off to pack some tobacco into his pipe. "I don't think we need worry about the inquiry," he added, rather ambiguously, "so long as we stick to the truth and nothing but the truth, but not quite the whole truth--which means that I'm still not mentioning the message O'Donnell left for me. I know the French police. They're devilish sharp, but they're suspicious by cultivated habit of thought as witness their Coeur Napoleon which considers a man guilty until he can prove himself innocent. If I mentioned Pat's message, I should have to tell them the contents of it, and the 'deplorably urgent' countering on your part would at once mean 'there's something fishy'." He paused to apply a pinch to his pipe.

"I've warned Penelope to keep her mouth shut about the press and the law, and there's a good girl. I don't know if it'll do any good, but I'm going to try."

I stared at him. "Am I to take it from that, that you're proposing to carry out an independent investigation into O'Donnell's death?"

"Just that," he agreed grimly. "As far as the local authorities are aware, O'Donnell was a hard sale man, presumably on a vacation, and I'm taking a risk in the car this afternoon across the Riviera from what I know a fellow in New York City was a close friend of Pat's and I'll send him a cable from Ventimiglia, reporting his death. He'll know what to do about it. If Pat was over here on business, it's probable his firm will send someone over to investigate and finish off the job, but it'll be a matter of ten days before he can arrive, and meanwhile the scent'll be cold. I intend to carry on myself in the meantime though I'll be working pretty much in the dark. Archie--he swung round on me suddenly. "Are you dead set on finishing your vacation trip?" I'd be uncommonly glad if I could stay on here to give me a hand. After all, you took that girl's death to heart, and I've a strong feeling the two crimes are connected."

I hesitated. Mark Lumsden would, I knew, be more than annoyed if I did as Hugo asked, for we had planned this trip on his little lark for over a year. But on the other hand, there were two other fellows on board, so that I should in no sense be leaving him in the lurch, and even as the last, evanescent thought came to me, I knew that I had decided.

"All right," I said. "I'll try," and felt as I spoke the words a queer, premonitory dread, half excitement run through me.

"Good man," said a voice that a muscular bang. "Strike me dead!"

He broke off, carrying a cigar, and, unlit, he stood at the door, and swung his legs over the balcony. Next instant from the door there came a sound, a crash, a thud, a dog-bark. I dashed back to my breakfast table and in two strides was at the door, my gun in my hand. For a moment I stood there, my hand on the door handle, and saw two strange figures, one in red and black, the other in a white shirt and dark trousers, both looking over their shoulders at me.

"A little investigation," he said, "and you'll find a boy with a scar on his forehead, a scar that was made by a bullet. He's a strange fellow, but I know a fellow in New York City who's a close friend of Pat's and I'll send him a cable from Ventimiglia, reporting his death. He'll know what to do about it. If Pat was over here on business, it's probable his firm will send someone over to investigate and finish off the job, but it'll be a matter of ten days before he can arrive, and meanwhile the scent'll be cold. I intend to carry on myself in the meantime though I'll be working pretty much in the dark. Archie--he swung round on me suddenly. "Are you dead set on finishing your vacation trip?" # Forsters, Irons Play 0-0 Tie

Start All Over Again at 10 O'clock Tomorrow Morning

FORSTER Tavern and Valley Iron softball teams battled for seven and a half innings last night at Pierce park in a game to determine the second round winner, and when they finished were no better off than when they started. The score was 0-0 and darkness forced the halt. The teams will start all over again at 10 o'clock Sunday morning at the park and can battle all day.

Bobbie Diener tossed for the Irons and allowed a single hit. He fanned seven batters and walked one. George Swamp tossed for the Taverns and gave three hits, fanned four and walked none. C. Grishaber's triple was the only extra base hit of the game.

Lefty Fredericks got the first hit of the game, a single in the third but died on base. In the fifth Forsters got their only safety when Dietzen singled with one away.

Kroiss opened the sixth for the Forsters with a bunt which he beat out. He stole second but remained there while Fredericks whiffed and the next two men lofted.

Valley Iron came closest to scoring when, in the seventh frame, C. Grishaber smashed a drive into right center. When he rounded third base he hesitated and then tried to score. The halt was just enough to allow Hiebel to tag Wisnet's wide throw and tag Grishaber coming into the plate.

Diener was in trouble only once. In the fourth, Natrop walked, stole second and continued to third on a bad throw by Horn. The next batter rolled to retire the side.

Bechers, Greenville Merchants to Meet Here Again Sunday

Becher Tavern softball team will clash with the Greenville Merchants at the W. Spencer street field at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon. The Taverns played in the Fox River Valley league and the Merchants are playing in the County League. The Merchants will use second team players in their regular league game and send their veterans to Appleton for the game with the Taverns.

Several weeks ago the teams clashed with the Merchants winning by a 17 to 13 count after leading by a top-heavy score. They let the Taverns count 11 runs in the final inning before they called a halt to proceedings.

Jess Rippel will start on the mound for the Taverns and Cliff Horton, Lefty Fredericks or Dats Crowe for the Greenville team.

Milwaukee Brews Defeated 7 to 6 by Toledo Mud Hens

Minneapolis and Indianapolis Split; St. Paul Trips Louisville

MILWAUKEE—(7)—Bats of the Toledo Mud Hens, impotent for 15 innings, found the range on Jose Gonzales last night with a 6-run spurge in the eighth which enabled the Hens to defeat Milwaukee, 7 to 6, and split the 2-game series.

Gonzales had victory in his grasp until Chet Laabs, former Brewer, entered the game in the eighth and smote a homer with two on base. Three more runs crossed the plate before Lefty Allan Johnson got the side out.

Milwaukee outslugged the Hens, 13 to 10, with Ralph Winegarner and Fritz Schulte hitting homers, but left 11 runners abandoned.

Toledo 000 000 10-7 10 0 Milwaukee 000 111 021-6 13 2 Bonetti, Nelson (5), Rogalski (6) and Hinkle, Gonzales, A. Johnson (8), Reiss (9) and Hankins.

Minneapolis, meanwhile, split a double header with Indianapolis, losing the opener, 12 to 5, but coming back to win the second, 6 to 4. Ted Williams' 40th homer and a double accounted for four Miller runs in the nightcap.

Merritt Chase hurled St. Paul's league leaders to a 2-hit, seven inning, 8 to 0 shutout over Louisville in the second game of a double bill after the Saints lost the first, 2 to 1, when Pee Wee Rees homered with one on for the Colonels in the tenth.

Kansas City failed to gain on the park settlers, however, when it, too, broke even. The Blues defeated Columbus 8 to 6, then lost, 3 to 1.

Office Defeats Sulphite, 7 to 3

Jerry Verstegen Homers For Winners With Two on Bases

Kimberly—The Office Softballers of the Kimberly mill league defeated the Sulphite 7 to 3 in a tilt Thursday afternoon at the ball park. The losers went out in front in the first frame with a run when Urban Wildenberg singled, reached second on an error and scored when Vic Hartjes singled.

The Office tied the count in the second when Carl Doughter scored on a walk. In the third frame the winners had their big inning. Wildenberg singled and stole second, Dud Courchane went down to first on a walk, and both runners were ready for the take off when Jerry Verstegen blasted a homer. Two more runs were added in the fifth and sixth frames when Krueger and Doerflinger scored.

The Sulphite scored twice in the third inning when Melcher and La Duke counted after singling. During the remainder of the game the losers went scoreless. Dud Courchane, the mound for the Office, allowed seven hits, fanned twelve and walked one. Wildenberg, pitching for the Sulphite, was touched for eight hits, fanned eleven and walked three.

Week-end Digest of Business Activity In Appleton and Vicinity

Memorial Helps Hold Family Ties Through the Years

Twin City Monument Works Can Perpetuate Memories for Ages

Many families gather together to renew family affections and to strengthen the ties which bind them together. They have opportunities to do so as certain holidays during the year when families gather at the cemetery to join again in spirit with those beloved ones who sleep there. The memorial on the family plot is the center of this reunion, representing those absent and somehow it seems to bring them and their memories more intimately near. At each memorial a family finds its strongest common bond and every day throughout the year a family may be truly reunited there.

The memories we treasure today will fade, even during our own lives and after we have gone, may be lost entirely. To preserve them, to record them as they deserve, they must be entrusted to a reminder that will remain through the years. The memorial will be that reminder, keeping memories beautifully and expressively, and carrying its story from generation to generation.

Even the smallest and most modest memorial is far better than none at all for it will be something permanent to perpetuate the name and the memory of the person or family to whom it is dedicated. If you are interested in securing a memorial of the very finest type, a memorial beautiful in appearance, outstanding in quality, guaranteed to endure, at a price eminently fair and reasonable, then the Twin City Monument Works, 301-307 Main street, Neenah, can serve you most satisfactorily and completely.

This firm manufactures and designs high grade memorials and monuments. Charles J. Madison, head of this firm, suggests that if you are interested in having a memorial for your family cemetery lot it is wise to place your order now so that you can get the best of service and workmanship during the fall and early winter months when there is not so much rush in business which is always so evident in the early spring and summer. A call to Neenah, 930-W or a visit to their headquarters will give you any further information on the purchase of a memorial or mausoleum.

Combined Locks Asks $70,000 for Project

Combined Locks — At a special meeting of the village board, Wednesday, an application for a PWA grant of $70,000 was approved by the board. The grant is to be used for the entire town which will be connected with the Kaukauna sewage disposal plant.

Miss Rosanne Hartjes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Hartjes, celebrated her twelfth birthday Wednesday with a party at which she entertained 16 of her friends.

Guests were Eunice Jansen, Grace Jansen, Kenneth Jansen, Rosine and Dorothy Berghuis, Alice Mae Jansen, Mary Jane Mulry, Marion De Goey, Marion De Coster, Delores Gossens, Theresa De Groot, Leona Jusko, Betty Revoir, Catherine Revoir, Charlotte DuPont, and Geraldine Hartjes.

Prizes were won by Grace Jansen, Theresa De Groot, and Eunice Jansen.

Coolerator Will Keep Fruit, Milk, Vegetables Fresh

Icy-Chef and Ice Cubes in 5 Minutes are Important Features

The wise housewife buys fresh, crisp, fruits and vegetables often picking them out, to make sure that they are freshest. A good share of food money is spent for fresh milk and butter and the housewife knows that she must buy the purest and the most wholesome products on the market to maintain the health of her family. When these foods are in the home, they should be kept in their same almost natural state of crispness and freshness making sure that the flavor and taste do not become tainted.

Being particular about the kind of refrigerator you use, will determine whether or not your foods are kept fresh and tasty, free from being tainted and spoiled. Almost any food refrigerator will give you cold air but cold air alone is not enough to give you the kind of refrigeration that will keep foods properly. Coolerator was the first ice refrigerator to offer a patented air conditioning chamber with the kind of cold, humidified air which will never rob the foods of their natural juices and flavor.

There are many fine features of the Coolerator, explains the Lutz Ice Company officials, dealers for the new model, air-conditioned ice refrigerator, the Coolerator. With the Icy-Chef you can have loads of fun making frozen desserts in 45 minutes. Icy-Chef has a patented Center Core which assures quick freezing. There is no crystallization of the dessert or tiny particles of fine ice to spoil the smooth, mellow flavor of your ice cream or frozen pudding. When you have the Icy-Chef, you can have delicious desserts at home for the family, for your bridge club, for picnics and outings, adding zest to that lunch or meal. The desserts will stay frozen for 12 hours.

Another feature of the Coolerator is the making of ice cubes in five minutes, perfectly shaped and ready for any cool drink. When you use Lutz ice, pure and artificially manufactured, you can be sure that your ice cubes are pure and good for you.

The ice service of the Lutz Ice Company is one of the finest. The delivery men are clean about their delivery and they use a drip-proof bag, leaving your kitchen clean. Patrons of the Lutz firm express their appreciation of this service which housewives feel means so much in keeping down their household chores.

Why not stop in today to look at a Coolerator. The salesroom is at your disposal and a salesman will gladly and without obligation demonstrate the Coolerator's features to you.

ERBACH COMPLETES ARRANGEMENTS FOR CONTEST WINNERS

Arranging final details for their trip to Toronto, Canada, via the Great Lakes, are Miss Audrey Wonders (left) and Miss Joan Gerlach, both of whom were second place winners in the Junior Chamber of Commerce popularity queen contest. Assisting them is Milton C. Erbach, head of Erbach Travel Service, 128 N. Oneida street, whose firm arranged all tours made possible by the Jaacs. The Erbach Service, incidentally, has made itself an enviable reputation in arranging for all types of trips and accommodations for travelers living in many parts of the Appleton area. There is no extra charge for Erbach service, yet the firm handles all details of any trip, from a short one to a world cruise.

Miss Wonders and Miss Gerlach sailed from Chicago late Wednesday afternoon on the palatial S. S. South American of the Georgian Bay line. They will stop at Mackinac Island, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo and Niagara Falls before reaching Toronto where they will be guests at the Canadian National Exhibition. They will return via Detroit and Chicago to Appleton. (Post-Crescent Photo, taken at the Erbach headquarters in the Conway hotel.)

Japanese Pastor Discusses Causes Of War in China

For the Rev. S. Hirono, pastor of Hongo Evangelical church, Tokio, who spoke at the forenoon and afternoon sessions. His forenoon address was devoted to a discussion of political situations in the Orient as they affect the religious life of the people.

"We all feel very sorry for the present situation in China," declared the Rev. Mr. Hirono. "The crisis did not come suddenly. We owe much of our Oriental civilization to China. We belong to the same Mongolian race. We have so much in common and we know we ought to be freer with each other than with any other nation."

Uncertain Conditions

The uncertain political and international situations in China were given as the first of several reasons for the present troubles between Japan and China. China was once powerful extending its influence to Europe, but the government has lost control and now European nations are seeking to develop their interest in China. "Then there are war lords in China," the speaker said, "not obeying any central government. Then came the communists. And when any central government is not strong enough, close neighbors like Japan become uneasy."

The over-population of Japan with 2,700 persons per square mile as compared to only 34 in the United States obliges the Japanese to turn to industry rather than to agricultural pursuits, according to the Rev. Mr. Hirono, who cited statistics to show the remarkable increase of industrial activity during the last 50 years. "And when we get ready to sell and sell our goods cheaper," he said, "other countries complained and raised their tariff walls, and it is only natural that we get restless, nervous and impatient."

Nationalism and patriotism, he said, do not lead any large numbers of people in Japan to oppose Christianity, and Christians have perfect freedom of religion, excepting that when it comes to questions of national policy or war, no one is allowed to differ with the government. "Christianity is deeply rooted in Japanese soil and stands well in politics, education, social movement, welfare work, in home and social life."

School of Religion

Over 100 students have registered in the school of religion and methods which opened at the camp on Thursday afternoon. The Rev. C. M. Schendel of Appleton is serving as dean and registrar in place of the Rev. C. W. Reichert of North Fond du Lac, who is confined to a hospital with a broken hip. A business meeting of the Appleton district Christian Endeavor league and Sunday school of which the Rev. H. Bernhardt of Seymour is president is being held Saturday afternoon.

A play, "The Silver Trumpet," depicting incidents in the family life of a preacher is being presented by the Forest Junction Young People's Missionary circle at 7:45 Saturday evening. The leading role is played by Roger Ott, who takes the part of the Rev. John Witherspoon. Others in the play are Clarence Knoespel, Willard Knoespel, Wallace Ott, Reuben Zierbel, Ross Hacker, Roy Wink, Lawrence Steinbach, Donald Ott, and the Misses Florence Knoespel, Arlene Franzke, Dorothy Schubring, Gladys Knoespel, Ruth Hacker, Mabel Zierbel, Aspenna Zierbel and Dorothy Dickvoss. Mrs. Ira Loefer coaches the presentation.

The encampment closes Sunday. Sermons by the Rev. William E. Grote, Elgin, Ill., guest speaker, are on the program at 10:15 in the forenoon and at 2:15 and at 7:45. A Sunday school session is held at 9 o'clock in the morning conducted by Alvin Belmer of Fond du Lac with a lesson exposition by the Rev. G. L. Bursack, Hartford.

TO ADDRESS GUITAR TEACHERS CONVENTION

Affiliated studios throughout the country envy her record as the originator of numerous improvements in guitar teaching—and her suggestions are always welcome at these conventions.

Starting her musical career about twelve years ago as a piano and violin instructor, Mrs. Mitchell now devotes her teaching time to Italian and Spanish guitar. "A guitar is easier to learn and more fun for a child to play," she stated recently, when asked about various instruments.

Affiliated studios throughout the country envy her record as the originator of numerous improvements in guitar teaching—and her suggestions are always welcome at these conventions.

Starting her musical career about twelve years ago as a piano and violin instructor, Mrs. Mitchell now devotes her teaching time to Italian and Spanish guitar. "A guitar is easier to learn and more fun for a child to play," she stated recently, when asked about various instruments.

If It's Worthy of Telling, It Needs Quality Printing

Bauer Offers Work on Its Merit: Gladly Gives Free Estimates

Initiative has been described as simply the word that indicates the quality of starting something—and that always begins with an "I." The same authority declared that there are two kinds of people in the world, both of which are included in the spelling of the word, "Initiative." They are the "I's" and the "I-nits."

Printing is the means of asserting one's business personality in various forms. If you have something to tell the world, use initiative—print what you have to say—and do it in a manner that will get you a hearing, will hold attention, and will convince the reader of the truth of your message.

If it is worth telling, it is worth telling well. That is where the Bauer Printing Company, 315 W. College avenue, comes in. The Bauer firm are producers of printing that commands the respect of the person who receives it. It is the tool, in other words, of the people of initiative.

Soliciting printing work solely on its ability to turn out satisfactory printing, this firm, headed by Max
